

NEW CIVIL RIGHTS SUIT FILED

... Desegregation Machinery Said Deliberately Halted

Washington (AP) — A new civil-rights suit filed Monday by several Southern school students alleges that the Nixon administration's school desegregation machinery has been deliberately ground to a halt in the last two years.

The class-action law suit seeks a U.S. district Court summary judgment directing the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to begin administrative or judicial enforcement proceedings against segregated state colleges in 10 southern states and segregated school districts in 17 southern and border states.

Tough federal enforcement was replaced with talk and little action after March 1970, the suit alleges, when Leon Panetta was forced to resign for overzealousness and 31-year-old Harvard lawyer J. Stanley Pottinger took over as director of the U.S. Office for Civil Rights.

Pottinger replied, "The allegations are absurd. The level of activity has increased, not decreased, during this period."

"In elementary and secondary schools, this administration has compiled a record of desegregation unmatched in history," he said in a statement. "In higher education, our approach has been to try to design a remedy that will work. We are not interested in tough talk, we are interested in solutions . . .

"The suit and its timing are political, and should be dismissed as such."

"Lackadaisical" The 80-page brief says the agency's "lackadaisical" enforcement of last April's Supreme Court decision, approving busing as a means of achieving desegregation, "may well reflect although it would clearly not be justified by" President Nixon's Aug. 3 stand against busing for racial balance.

The suit reports that presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler said those not responsive to Nixon's directive "will find themselves involved in other assignments or quite possibly in assignments other than the federal government."

The suit says that despite requirements of Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act the government "has annually continued to grant millions upon millions of dollars in federal aid to segregated public schools and colleges throughout the South."

"Under a variety of half-hearted HEW enforcement policies and unnecessary self-denying ordinances," it alleges, "hundreds of elementary and secondary school districts have continued to receive federal aid for months and years after they were found to be segregating or discriminating in violation of Title VI and the Constitution."

"And in the area of higher education," it adds, "the agency has yet to begin even its first enforcement action in any of the 10 states where it long ago found that an unconstitutional segregated system continues in operation."

A new government policy announced July 3, 1969, to minimize fund cutoffs amounted to "nothing less than outright surrender by HEW" of its most effective compliance tool, the brief contends, noting that 44 districts were terminated from funds between the summers of 1968 and 1969, only two the following year and none since the summer of 1970.

Similarly, it said, HEW virtually stopped citing districts for administrative hearings — initial step in fund cutoffs — when Pottinger became civil rights director, after initiating enforcement proceedings and deferring funds for almost 100 districts in 1968 and 1969.

"Instead, for nearly two years, HEW has confined itself to conciliation and admonition to promote desegregation in Southern school cases," the suit said, adding that refusal to take sterner steps "is equivalent to an administrative repeal of the statute."

The petition names as plaintiffs only "Kenneth Adams, et al." No further identification was given and lawyers for the plaintiffs were not immediately available.

Devaluation Hits Tourists

London (UPI) — Americans working in Europe turned to their companies Monday for more money to stop the pinch of the dollar devaluation. American tourists turned towards home.

The 8% devaluation of the dollar decided over the weekend in Washington hit tourists and Americans living abroad where, one said, "it hurt the most, in the pocketbook."

The tourists decided they would have to cut short their vacations. The overseas worker hoped his company would make up the difference. Most of them appeared willing to do it.

In Rome, businessman William Conrad of Philadelphia, an accountant with a U.S. firm, said, "I'm not worried. They (the company) told me my salary will be adjusted and I am not going to lose anything."

Retroactive To Aug. 15

In Brussels, Jim Benson, partner in charge of the audit division at Arthur Anderson, international auditors, said, "The firm will pay adjustments retroactive from Aug. 15. At a social function attended by quite a few executives last night I heard the vast majority of U.S. companies established in Belgium will do the same."

Another U.S. business executive, who declined to be identified, told UPI Paris correspondent Michael Dennigan his company was making up the loss in allowances.

For the tourists nothing was so easy. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robey of Madison, Wis., arrived in Paris Sunday. "We just got here and we're completely befuddled. We don't even know how much we're out," Mrs. Robey said.

Darryl Kaneko of Denver said, "I had planned on at least a month in Germany. Now I'm catching the first plane out of Frankfurt for Moscow."

"We were all aware of the devaluation thing before we came over here," he said. "But none of us had prepared ourselves for something like this."

Anything For Marks He said some of his friends were selling watches, rings, packs, boots — anything to pick up a few extra marks, not dollars — to continue their European stay.

Mrs. Robert Shambaugh of Baton Rouge, La., sighed, "We're just happy we paid for most of our trip in advance. It could have made a real difference otherwise having to pay for three weeks of hotels and travel expenses," she said.

In London, Mrs. Marilee Johnson of Minneapolis, Minn., told UPI, "it won't make us destitute, but it'll definitely affect our buying power."

Her sentiments were echoed in Paris by David Lawson of Akron, Ohio. "We aren't shopping at all in France," he said.

U.S. Eligibility Standards Apply

Washington (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously Monday that states taking part in joint federal-state welfare programs must abide by federal eligibility standards and cannot impose narrower limits on those receiving benefits.

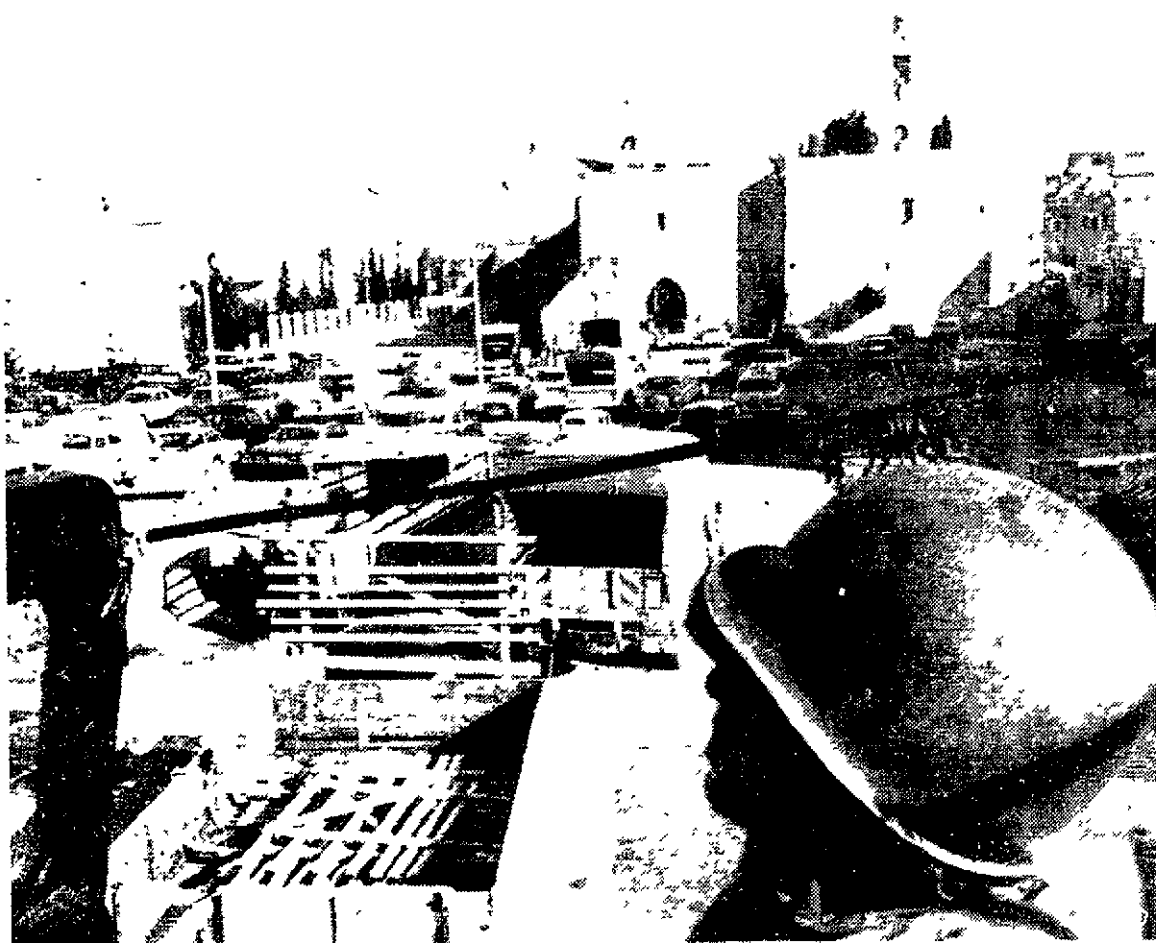

The court held that Illinois was not entitled under the aid to dependent children (ADC) program to assist eligible 18 to 20-year-olds who attend high school or vocational school but deny it to those attending college.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said seven other states similarly have restricted their ADC programs — Connecticut, Indiana, Nevada, North Dakota, South Dakota, Vermont and Washington. Overall, there were 7.4 million ADC recipients under the age of 21 in August.

The ruling reversed a 1970 decision by a three-judge federal panel in Chicago that there was a rational basis for distinguishing between different classes of students.

"We think there is a serious question whether the Illinois classification can withstand the structures of the equal protection clause," Justice William J. Brennan said in the opinion. "We are not told what bases in practical experience support the proposition that children with a vocational training are more readily employable than children with a college education."

The suit was brought by Mrs. Georgia Townsend and Mrs. Lovetta Alexander of Chicago, whose ADC checks were cut by the Cook County Public Welfare Department because they had children in junior college.

Exon Seeks 'Pay As You Go' Funding For Sewage Treatment

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon forwarded two "pay as you go" alternatives to improve the method of funding secondary sewage treatment plants through either local bond financing or yearly appropriations Monday.

Under the first plan, municipalities would float bond issues for both the state's share of 25% and the local government's 20% for the treatment plants with the remaining 55% coming from the federal government. Then, at some point after actual construction had started, the Legislature would appropriate funds for the state's share and retire those bonds.

The second proposal, the chief executive said, would appropriate $2.4 million annually over a 10 or 12 year period for state participation in the sewage program.

The purpose of the plan, Exon said, is to continue state participation in the federal matching fund program while at the same time eliminating the problem of idle funds.

The advantage of the two systems can be seen by looking at the current situation, Exon said.

Department of Environmental Control Director James L. Higgins recently noted that of the $6.6 million earmarked for sewage treatment by the last Legislature for fiscal 1972 approximately $1 million would be spent in this fiscal year. In other words, the average time-lag of three years between appropriation and completion results in the earmarked funds piling up until they can be given to the projects.

"This would allow us to do everything we need and still stay away from a practice I don't agree with—allowing unnecessary tax collections to just pile up in the bank," Exon said.

The DEC would act as a filter for the projects to insure the state could regulate just how much it is committed to spending, he said.

The possibility for such legislation received a lift when the Appropriations Committee voted recently not to include sewage treatment funds in the Department of Environmental Control's budget request for fiscal 1973. Such funds will have to be appropriated by the upcoming session.

Apparently, federal Environmental Protection Agency officials are not opposed to such a program in principle.

Concordia, Kan. (AP) — An Omaha man, his daughter and her teen-age friend were killed Monday in the crash of a private plane near Clyde, Kan., about 15 miles east of here.

Cloud County authorities identified the victims as Anthony P. Sage, 38; his daughter, Mary Jane Sage, 18, and Kathy Hardman, 18, of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

The sheriff's office said the plane was en route from Salina, Kan., to Omaha. Officers said the body of the pilot was found about 200 feet from the plane.

regional chief of the management division in Kansas City, said he would have to get approval from legal experts in Washington on the particulars of the plan but added that the "thinking isn't bad."

"The main thing," Stevenson said, "is that we need an agreement so that when the time comes the state money is available."

"We currently have similar programs that are not directly funded by the states. In North Dakota the State Bank loans the money to municipalities."

For such an agreement to be acceptable, Stevenson listed three requirements. First, there must be enabling legislation for the plan to become effective. The second requirement is that there be an authorized person to legally commit the state. This, he said, could either be the governor or the DEC director.

The last stipulation is an attorney general's opinion authorizing such an agreement legal and binding.

Christmas: American Style . . .

Rodanthe Celebrated Late

By BARBARA CRAIG

Did you ever hear of Rodanthe, the tiny American village where they celebrated Christmas on Jan. 5 until a few short decades ago?

And do you know about Old Buck, a rip-snorting Halloween-style character who roamed the North Carolina community in place of St. Nick during the delayed holiday celebration?

Even today, it is not known why Rodantheans, celebrated Christmas on Jan. 5, which was also Epiphany Eve. Various explanations have been offered, but not one has been satisfactory. Since the second world war though, there has been a break with tradition, and the villagers now welcome Santa on the 25th of December along with the rest of the world.

Still Remembered But the traditional Rodanthe Christmas is still remembered fondly by the many old timers among the 400 residents of the spray-swept village on the sand banks that bar the ocean from the North Carolina sounds.

Legend has it that during the wee small hours of the morning of Jan. 5 every year, all the cattle, sheep and other beasts in Rodanthe would kneel in commemoration of the scene at Bethlehem centuries ago.

When this happened, a serenader with fife and drum would march slowly through the center of the village. His job was to rouse the sleeping occupants of every home in Rodanthe.

Naturally, the children would dash downstairs to discover what toys had been left beneath the tree for them, and to sample the tasty treats stuffed into their Christmas stockings.

At noon, a picnic dinner was traditionally served to the Rodantheans on tables placed on the main street in the center of the village. Fruit cake, collard greens and wild fowl were the principal delicacies on the menu.

Masquerade Ball During the evening, Rodantheans of all ages dressed in old clothes and staged a masquerade ball at the little schoolhouse. The appearance of old Buck was the climax of the day's entertainment.

Old Buck was actually two men in a bull's costume. His arrival made the celebration seem more like Halloween than Christmas. It was his job to punish naughty youngsters, and he usually did this by requiring the guilty ones to sing or recite poems for the amusement of those present.

One theory as to why the Rodantheans celebrated Christmas later than everybody else has to do with the change in the calendar. During the seventeenth century, with the first settlers arrived in Rodanthe, the calendar, as we know it today, was not universally accepted. For this reason, the Rodantheans, to avoid confusion, may have observed Epiphany Eve as the anniversary of the birth of Christ. The next day, Jan. 6, is still celebrated as "Old Christmas" in many parts of the world.

But nowhere else on earth, except Rodanthe, has Jan. 5 ever been observed as Christmas.

NCET Petition Campaign Seeks State Funding Of Classroom TV

The Nebraska Council for Educational Television (NCET) Inc., has begun a petition campaign to encourage state funding for elementary and secondary classroom television service.

Plans for the drive were approved by NCET at its annual meeting. Members also elected officers and board members for 1972.

Dr. Gail Sims, Columbus, was elected president and Dr. Allan Warner, Holdrege, was named vice president.

According to a council news release, the 1971 state legislature passed a law placing the responsibility for elementary and secondary classroom television with the state Department of Education, but did not appropriate funds to support the intent of the bill.

Meanwhile, the television service has been maintained by NCET and the Metropolitan Omaha Broadcasting Association, according to the release.

It said these two agencies are supporting the cost of the television service for their members through $2.00 and $2.10 a pupil assessments. Approximately 350 school districts are members of the agencies.

Under the new law, LB404, all Nebraska schools would have access to the total service without payment of individual student fees.

The NCET release says, "Funding for LB404 will equalize inequities now present in the agency system of support and permit every Nebraska school equal opportunity to use the service."

Members attending the meeting heard board of directors' recommendations that NCET:

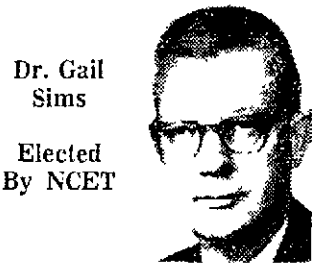

—continue as a legal corporation to govern corporate assets;

—drop the $2.00 a pupil fee.

—serve as an advisory group to the Department of Education, ETV commission and Channel 12 in matters related to the television service;

Bungling, Irresponsibility Cited In Penn Central Mess

Washington (AP) — Reporting possible conflict of interest at the highest levels of the Penn Central Railroad, government auditors Monday blamed financial irresponsibility and operating incompetence for the huge line's monetary debacle.

Officials of the Bureau of Enforcement of the Interstate Commerce Commission said some of the specific evidence contained in two massive "autopsy" reports may be referred to the Justice Department for grand jury investigation and possible criminal prosecution.

David C. Bevan
Ex-chief financial officer

The 1,760 pages of reports and documents said the merger of the New York Central with the Pennsylvania Railroad resulted in total chaos and a serious potential for conflict of interest in the running of the combined company's huge pension fund.

An auditor's report said the pension funds appeared to have been misused under the stewardship of David C. Bevan, former chief financial officer of the Penn Central Transportation Co.

Written by ICC auditor

George K. Deller, the report summarized a series of stock deals in which purchases of securities by the fund were parallel to private stock purchases by Bevan and other Penn Central officials and associates.

The Deller study analyzed also transactions authorized by Bevan to reduce Penn Central's enormous long-term debt by leasing equipment through "straw" parties rather than buying it outright.

In one of these transactions, the report said Penn Central sold equipment with a book value of $4.8 million to American Investors Inc. for a token payment of $2.

In a separate agreement Penn Central agreed to repurchase the equipment for $2.75 million or to lease it for $325,000 a year over five years.

The report said two of the principals of American Investors figured prominently in the misappropriation of $4 million of Penn Central funds from a trust account in Liechtenstein, a European principal.

The Deller study reported also numerous interlocking directorships of banks and corporations on the Penn Central board and said a possible conflict-of-interest situation developed when the railroad continues to pay dividends well after its financial plight became all but insoluble.

Basic Question

The report said all this raises a basic question: "Could directors with and individuals with such divided loyalties truly exercise their fiduciary responsibilities without conflict?"

The over-all Enforcement Bureau report said that in the years immediately after the two railroads merged, actual rail operations deteriorated, a condition it blamed on a "widespread confusion" resulting from a decision to combine the two line's traffic through yards which lacked the capacity to handle such volume.

Shipments were delayed, cars lost, maintenance and repair were slow or poor, the report said.

Financial operations were no better and by March 31, 1970, Penn Central's unsettled customer accounts totaled $100.5 million, the report said.

It said also labor costs were enormous and far out of line from prevailing wages paid by other roads—$434 million more than paid by comparable lines in wages and fringe benefits in 1968-1969 alone.

Fiduciary Irresponsibility

Deller said his review of available documents discloses "a lack of fiduciary responsibility strongly lending itself to a conflict of interest" in top Penn Central management.

Enforcement Bureau officials said a brief based on evidence contained in the two phases of its investigation will be submitted in February.

James Taylor, a trial attorney for the bureau, said the development of evidence which could lead to a possible criminal prosecution is being aimed for no later than 1973, the year the five-year statute of limitations runs out under federal law.

He said the bureau would recommend also changes in the ICC's regulations and in federal law as a means of heading off possible similar situations in the future.

The railroad currently is being run by four trustees operating under the guidance of the U.S. District Court in Philadelphia, Pa.

Gene Has Bargain Rate Loan

By JAMES R. POLK
(c) Washington Star

Washington — Eugene J. McCarthy, getting ready for a second run for the presidency, has a $50,000 loan from a campaign financial angel at a rare bargain rate.

The former Minnesota senator got the money from Mrs. Anne Peretz, a Singer heiress in Boston. She and her husband, Harvard Prof. Martin Peretz, were among McCarthy's biggest backers in his 1968 peace campaign.

The interest on the loan is listed at 1%, a friendly rate far below a bank's terms.

Neither McCarthy's office

nor Peretz would discuss the loan's purpose or background.

Peretz contributed more than $100,000 to McCarthy's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination three years ago. McCarthy said Friday that he will run again next year.

The loan appears on public property records for McCarthy's three-story, red brick townhouse in Georgetown. But it was not attached to the deed until last spring, five months after McCarthy bought the house.

"I don't know anything about it," said an aide in McCarthy's office near Capitol Hill.

Reached in Boston, Peretz said, "I don't even think the loan is still standing, but I have no comment to make."

"No comment," repeated the McCarthy aide when asked if the loan was paid.

The District of Columbia property records say the 15-year loan runs through 1985.

McCarthy bought the $87,500 townhouse one year ago. The trust deed for the unexplained loan was added in April, but the papers filed said the $50,000 debt dated back to October 1970.

Bhutto Succeeds Yahya In Pakistan

By The Associated Press

Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan resigned as president of Pakistan Monday and was replaced by Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, a West Pakistani politician who pledged to restore democracy in Pakistan, avenge the defeat by India and reunify the country.

"Democracy will be restored and a constitution will be given to the people," Bhutto told the nation over Radio Pakistan. "Please do not lose heart. We will redeem this. We will take revenge."

Yahya stepped down because of widespread anger at his army's defeat in the two-week war and the loss of East Pakistan to Bengali insurgents who were escorted into Dacca, the provincial capital, by the victorious Indian army.

Bhutto, 43, heads the Pakistan People's party, the most powerful political group in West Pakistan. He opposes East Pakistan independence and repeated in his address Monday that the rebel province must remain an "inseparable and indissoluble part of Pakistan."

Martial Law Kept

Bhutto's ascension to the presidency ended 13 years of military rule in Pakistan. Although he retained martial law, the U.S.-educated politician promised to restore civilian rule as soon as possible.

Bhutto was sworn in shortly after his return from the United States, where he led Pakistani diplomacy at the United Nations during fruitless attempts to end the war. He conferred with President Nixon Saturday.

"I am the chief martial law administrator but I will not want martial law to continue any longer — any hour, any minute, any second — than necessary," he declared. "I know what it means to be under a dictatorship."

Bhutto was jailed under the military regime of Yahya's predecessor, president Mohammed Ayub Khan, a general who ruled by decree. Bhutto's People's Party, though dominated by wealthy intellectuals, espouses socialism as the quickest route for Pakistani development.

A wealthy landowner himself, Bhutto found himself in conflict with Ayub over settlement of the 1965 war with India and over Bhutto's insistence on close relations with China.

Schooled in India, the University of California and in Britain, Bhutto had served in Ayub's cabinet for eight years before the break. It was after his dismissal in 1966 that he founded his party.

No Time Limit

Bhutto, though vowing to avenge the loss of East Pakistan, gave no time limit or indication how the revenge would be accomplished. But he said in a statement directed to the nation's armed forces: "We will not rest for a moment 'til we have redeemed your honor."

He appealed to people of the secessionist province not to forget the western wing, "but to forgive us if they are angry."

He made no mention of Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, the East Pakistani leader who was jailed last March when central government troops cracked down on the independence movement. The occupation generated a bloody civil war that drove millions of refugees into India and precipitated the all-out hostilities between India and Pakistan.

Racist Schools Denied Status Of Tax-Exempt

Washington (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday upheld a ban on tax-exempt status for private white academies established to duck court-ordered integration of public schools.

The court upheld a ruling issued by the U.S. District Court here last June 30 in response to complaints by Negro public-school pupils and their parents in Mississippi. In another important action the court ruled that the government must show that a weapon has crossed a state line in order to convict a felon accused under the federal gun-control law.

The government argued that no one convicted of a serious crime may ever legally possess a gun. While the court did not rule directly on this question, its reading of the government's burden in prosecuting such cases could prove significant in future enforcement of any gun controls.

$1 Billion To U.S.

The court entered an order giving the federal government some $1 billion in impounded proceeds from oil-drilling leases in the Gulf of Mexico. Another $700 million remains to be disposed of in the continuing dispute over where Louisiana domain ends and federal jurisdiction begins on submerged lands in the Gulf.

In the school cases, the Negro plaintiffs alleged that the tax-exempt status of the mushrooming private schools aided white efforts to skirt integration orders. They claimed also that private schools benefiting from the exemptions were draining away teachers as well as white students from the public schools.

The government already had reversed its earlier policy and announced that exemptions would be cut off to schools that discriminate. But a district court ruling, upheld Monday, ordered the government to tighten the standards by which it determines whether a school discriminates.

The Internal Revenue Service said 33 private schools in Mississippi had lost tax-exempt status as a result of the original decision, with 87 other private schools keeping tax-exempt status and six more in the process of being studied.

All In South

Outside Mississippi, the IRS said a nationwide survey of private schools had led it to propose tax-exempt revocations in 53 cases, all in the South.

Of these, 21 are in South Carolina, 11 each in Florida and Alabama, 5 in North Carolina, 3 in Georgia and 2 in Tennessee.

The IRS said its survey had resulted in 3,500 private schools being told they can retain their tax-exempt status after declaring nondiscriminatory admission policies.

In the gun case the court decided by 5 to 2, with Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Harry A. Blackmun dissenting, to take a narrow interpretation of a key provision in the 1968 gun-control law, which the court said is not clear.

Connection Not Shown

The court decided that the conviction of Kenneth Bass of New York must be set aside because the government has failed to show the requisite (connection) with interstate commerce.

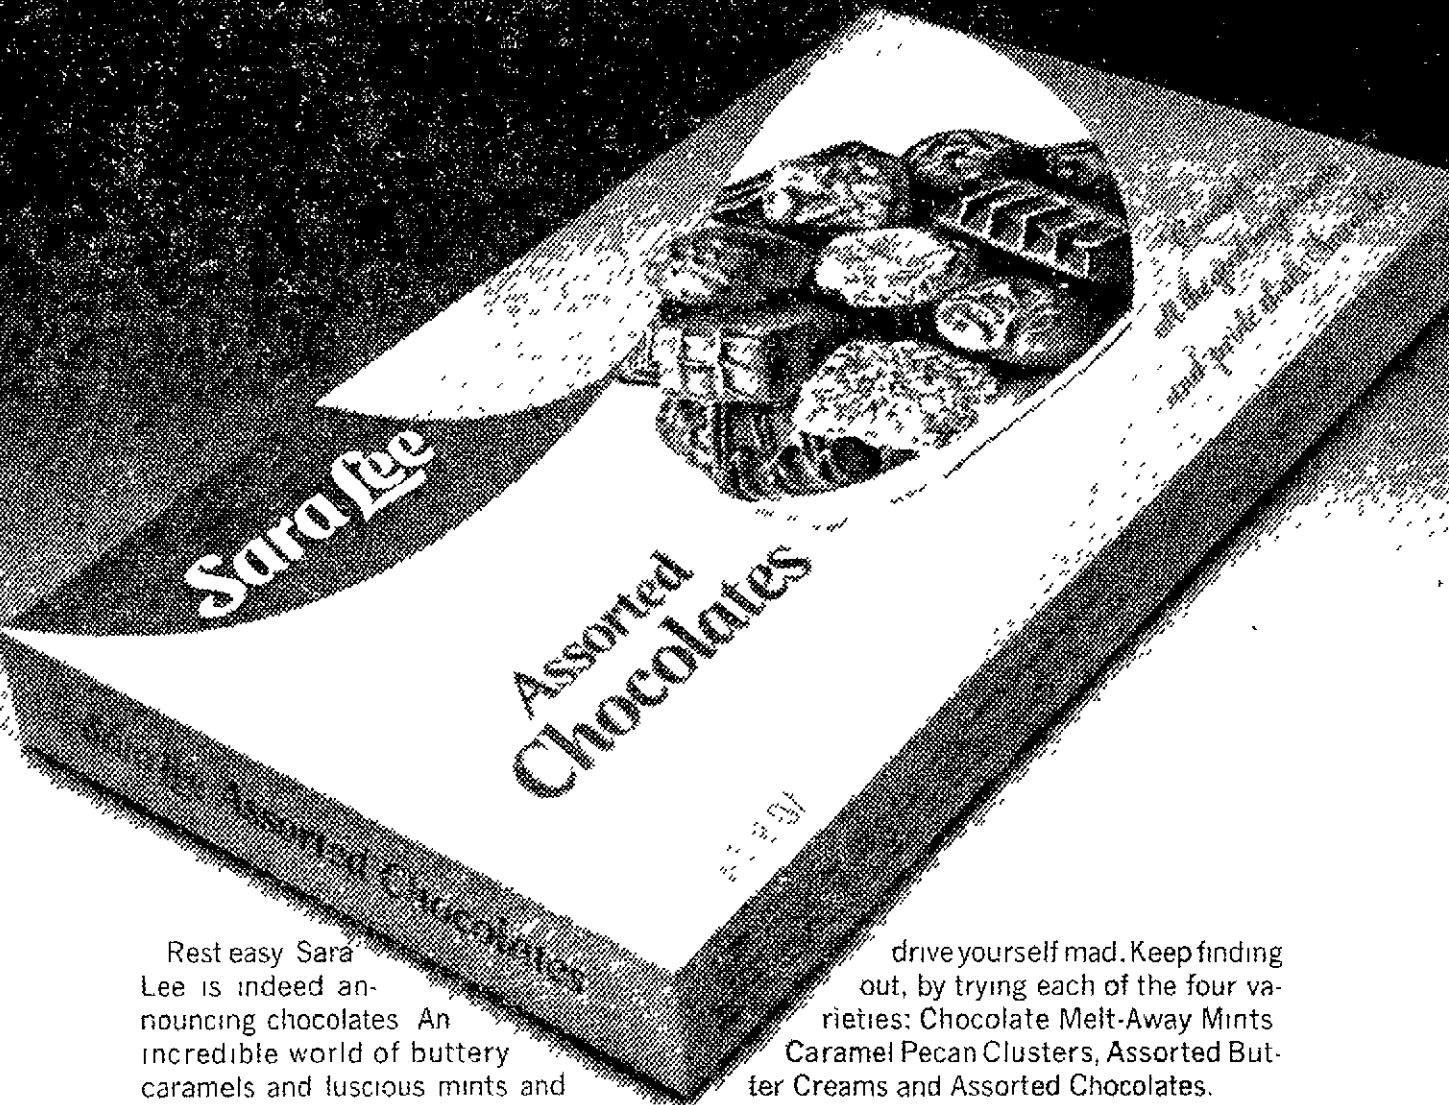

"Absent proof of some interstate commerce in each case," the court said, the law's provision "dramatically intrudes upon traditional state criminal jurisdiction."

Money from the offshore oil leases has been impounded in escrow fund since 1956 pending a final settlement of the dispute.

The government had asked that $1 billion from the fund be released to the United States because Louisiana had acknowledged that it had no claim to the land which generated the money, under terms of previous court decisions.

"The amount here is too great to be left in limbo," U.S. Solicitor General Irwin N. Griswold said in oral arguments last week.

10% Import Surcharge Dropped

Hamilton, Bermuda (AP) — President Nixon surprised British Prime Minister Edward Heath on Monday with an order for immediate repeal of the 10% U.S. import surcharge, then announced a move to help developing countries.

Through Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Nixon made known a few hours later a decision to ask Congress early next year to grant generalized trade preferences to developing nations.

Rogers said Latin America would benefit particularly from the step.

The United States committed itself several years ago to such a step, which would reduce

MIG21s, Guns Shoot Down 4 Phantoms

Saigon (AP) — North Vietnam's air defenses, including Soviet-built MIG21 fighters, knocked down four American fighter-bombers last weekend for their biggest air success in years, the U.S. Command reported Tuesday.

The North Vietnamese added the names of four Americans to their list of prisoners held.

Two of the eight crewmen aboard the F4 Phantom jets shot down along the border of northern Laos were rescued in a massive search operation. The United States listed the other six as missing, but four men were displayed at a news conference in Hanoi and identified as: Lt. Kenneth Roth Wells, 34; Maj. Leland Louis Hildebrand, 33; Lt. Samuel Richard Vaughan, 26; and Maj.

Kenneth Richard Johnson, 33.

A Tokyo newspaper correspondent in Hanoi reported that Wells and Hildebrand appeared at the news conference in prisoners' blue; the other two in U.S. fliers' gear. They were not allowed to speak.

Air Force records list four officers whose names and serial numbers match those given by Hanoi, but the Pentagon declined to comment on the identities of the missing crewmen or give hometowns until it is certain next of kin have been notified.

Hanoi claimed the four planes were shot down over North Vietnam. The U.S. Command insisted the supersonic jets were downed over Laos while supporting Laotian government troops reeling from a four-day enemy offensive on the Plain of Jars.

In its first announcement Monday, the command said MIG interceptors "apparently" engaged the American planes. On Tuesday it said one of the F4s and possibly two others were shot down by MIG21s armed with air to air missiles and 20mm cannon. The fourth was downed by antiaircraft guns.

First Since 1968
It was the first downing of an American fighter-bomber by a MIG since June 16, 1968.

"Several MIGs were observed crossing into Laos during the time the planes were shot down," said one U.S. Command spokesman.

Spokesmen said there have been more than 10 instances in recent weeks where MIG19 and MIG21 interceptors flew briefly into Laos, occasionally firing air to air missiles, including one at a B52 heavy bomber. No U.S. aircraft were reported hit in the previous engagements.

The latest losses raised to six the number of U.S. planes shot down along the border in the past 10 days. Two jets were downed by surface to air missiles on Dec. 10 and Dec. 17, with three of the four crewmen rescued and one missing.

The U.S. Command said the two-day loss of four is the highest since July 24-25, 1968, when two planes were shot down over North Vietnam on each day. The record high for a

Catholic Girl Slain By Ulster Gunmen

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — Gunmen killed a 20-year-old Roman Catholic girl and gravely wounded a British soldier Monday night, capping a daytime harvest of 20 explosions from bombs sowed throughout Northern Ireland.

A burst of automatic fire from a speeding car missed a British army patrol but one bullet struck Margaret McCorry in the head, killing her instantly, police said. The gunmen were believed members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

She was the 203rd victim of the religious and political violence in this British province since August 1969, and the 107th fatality this year.

Super fire struck a soldier in another army patrol. An Army spokesman said the soldier, hit in the abdomen, was "very seriously injured."

The crack of gunfire replaced the blast of bombs as darkness fell on Belfast, and street crowds began to gather in Roman Catholic districts. The girl victim fell on Crumlin Road in the Ardoyne area. The soldier was shot in the Howard Street area.

Residents of Lisburn, just down the road from Belfast, began filtering back into their town after experts defused an oil truck superbomb in hours of tuckish work.

Four men and a woman drove an oil truck from Belfast 12 miles down the major M-1 highway and rigged a large gelignite bomb under the vehicle in the center of Lisburn, a market town of 26,000.

The outlawed Irish Republican Army—IRA—has boasted that it "would wreck Belfast by Christmas."

Bombers operating amid the pre-Christmas shopping crowds hit seven downtown and three suburban targets in Belfast, plus a scattering of others in Northern Ireland's six counties.

EVENTS IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

During the next thirty days, many thousands of young people will be entering the U.S. job market for the first time in search of permanent employment. They will be the mid-year graduates of the country's institutions of higher education.

They will be fewer in number than go forth in June but they will face basically the same things that have been faced by recent graduates. Some of them will find the kind of jobs they are looking for and some of them will have to settle for something less than they want, a reality of the economic times in which we live.

Beyond that, the occasion is one which raises the whole question of higher education and who should be pursuing it. Writing in the Christian Science Monitor, William H. Stringer notes that vocational education is an idea whose time has come.

The vocational education route is on the ascendancy, he pointed out, while pursuit of a college degree is on the downhill. This is not a wholesale kind of thing, but rather, an orderly transition within our society and its educational and economic systems.

Stringer notes that "some young people have discovered that they wanted more "action" than most college careers offered; wanted a salary sooner than four years beyond high school; wanted less library work and more concrete "achievement."

"For another thing, college graduates have been finding it somewhat more difficult to get those especially good jobs that are to await graduates; and there are more than enough Ph.D's. around, especially in teaching and engineering. The college route isn't quite as attractive as it was.

"A Department of Labor study suggests that by 1980 some 80 per cent of all jobs will require less than a college degree. But they will usually require skills. . . . By 1980 some 1.5 million more secretaries will be needed, the number of people in computer fields will double, and some 400,000 subprofessional health workers will be required."

The article does point out, of course, that a college degree still has many advantages and is still the thing to do for a great many young people. But lack of a college degree has definitely lost the stigma that once was attached to it.

This brings into sharp focus the vocational education matters that are of current importance here in Nebraska. This state has passed legislation that seeks to reorganize and strengthen our system of community colleges—the future form of vocational education.

But the organization of this structure for vocational education is running into a lot of stumbling-blocks and even existing state financing of such efforts are now being questioned. Once again, you ask yourself if our adult society has the proper concern for the responsibility it faces in this area.

Is this adult society concerned about quality education in the vocational field or is it concerned about all kinds of political matters? Are appropriations keyed to needs or to the practicalities of public officials getting re-elected? Is organization keyed to the most successful approach to the subject or to local pride and local economic greed?

It is important, too, that vocational education be seen in its full potential. It has tremendous potential in its relationships with adult members of society.

For the unemployed, vocational education can be the key the unlocks the future. It can be the same thing for the man or woman who is employed below the level of their full potential.

Thus, vocational education is not just something for high school graduates, but rather, something that can be of great help to men and women of all ages. It could be the vehicle by which we ultimately win the war against poverty.

There is no better social program than one that makes a productive person out of an unproductive one. One of the leading ways of doing this is to train people to the extent that they can find employment on a level to match their own potential.

PHYLIS BATTELLE Those Old Songs Had Inspirations

NEW YORK — They don't write songs the way they used to.

In the old days, they were more silly and romantic and haphazard about it. . . . One afternoon in 1927, for instance, Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart were taxiing in Paris, a perilous occupation even then. Swinging around a curve, their taxi nearly collided with another car.

"Oh—my heart stood still!" exclaimed a girl riding with them.

Hart made a quick mental note. Rodgers copied it down in a little diary. A few days later in London, the song was composed. A few nights later, the Prince of Wales heard it, fell in love with it, and sang it to a small crowd at the Cafe de Paris. The press noted the incident, and a hit song was launched. "My Heart Stood Still" is now a standard.

In 1943, a songwriter named Milton Drake met his 4-year-old daughter, Nelia, coming home from kindergarten. As is the wont of fathers, he asked her what she'd learned that day, and she replied, "Cowzy tweet and sowzy tweet and liddle sharky doisters." As is the wont of composers, Mr. Drake wrote "Mairzy Doats" and made a fortune.

In the same year, the late Nat King Cole, a minister's son, took a line from one of his father's sermons and turned it into a song. It was "Straighten Up and Fly Right," one of the most lucrative melodies of World War II. But not for Nat, who hungrily sold all rights to his song for $50.

While Rodgers & Hart were carousing around Paris in 1927, Hoagy Carmichael was attending a class reunion at his alma mater, the University of Indiana. Over taken by memories, he returned to the old "spooning wall" and leaned against it, recalling a girl he had loved and lost in that very spot. A melody came to him. He hurried to the campus "book nook" and scribbled it down. Later, when he heard a recording of the number by the Emile Seidel orchestra, Hoagy said: "It didn't even sound familiar to me. I wanted to shout back at the song. 'Maybe I didn't write you—maybe I found you!'"

The song, of course, was "Stardust."

A half-dozen years before that, a man named Richard Whiting wrote a tune and pitched it into the waste basket. It didn't have what it takes, he explained later. But his wife fished the song out of the refuse, took it to a music publisher, and sold "Till We Meet Again."

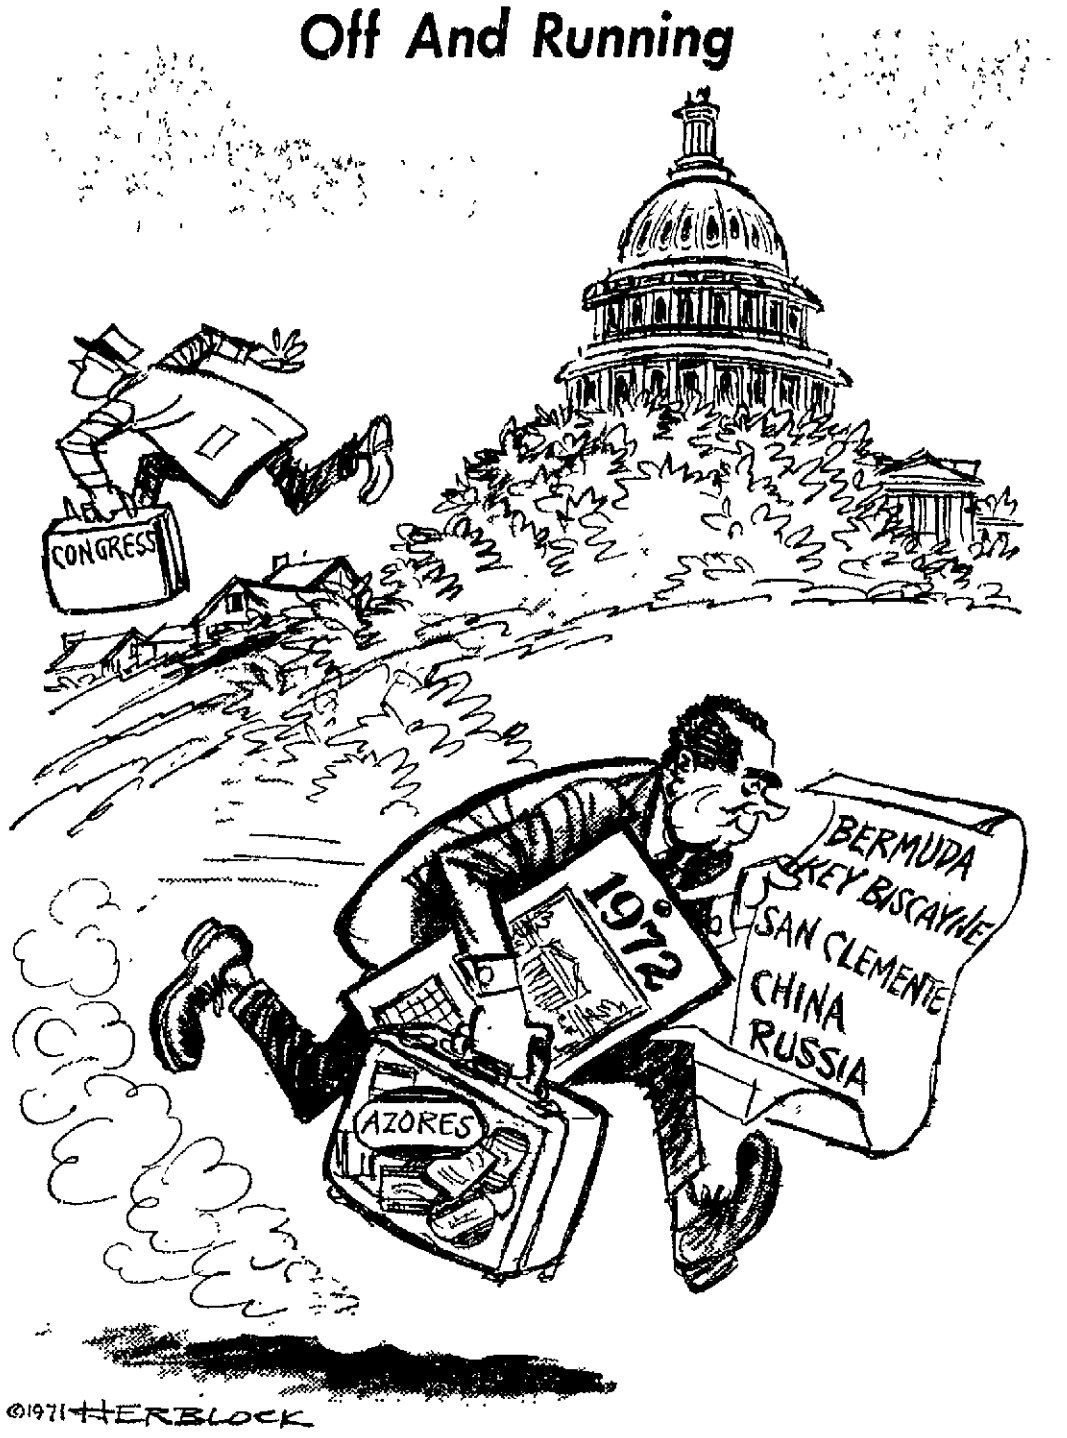

In 1925 Al Jolson introduced a number in the musical "Big Boy." It was a flop, so he handed it over to Eddie Cantor, who sang it at a benefit show in New York. When the audience heard "If You Knew Susie, Like I Know Susie," they went wild.

So did Jolson. "Eddie, if I'd known the song was that good, you dirty dog, you'd never have gotten it," he growled.

But Jolson made a hit or two on his own. After he became world-famous, he introduced a song called "You Made Me Love You," falling on one knee and stretching out his arms to the audience as he sang it. Great dramatic technique evolved, suddenly, when he suffered a stab of pain from an ingrown toenail.

That's song biz, nostalgia style.

Relief Plan Proposed

President Nixon Tuesday concludes the third in a series of pre-Peking meetings with allied leaders. Meeting in Bermuda with British Prime Minister Edward Heath, it is unlikely that Nixon will startle the world with an announcement as significant as the one he made in the Azores last week in agreeing to devalue the dollar.

That decision, coming at the hard insistence of French President Pompidou, was a prelude to the accord reached this last weekend by the ten richest non-communist nations that Nixon called "the most significant monetary agreement in the history of the world." But as surprising as Nixon has been this year, something extraordinary could develop.

Heath will urge the President to join in a crash relief program for East Pakistani refugees in India and for the millions more who remained in the region during the two-week war. He further will ask the U.S. to seek some sort of accommodation with India after blaming it for the fighting.

With a new government in Pakistan and acts of revenge taking place in independent Bangla Desh, the situation is not standing still. Further, the new nation is likely to start off conducting its foreign relations with an anti-American bias. Bangla Desh Prime Minister Tajuddin Ahmed said Sunday his nation had no intention of seeking economic aid from the U.S.

Tajuddin was quoted as saying that since the U.S. had shown its unfriendliness and conspired with West Pakistan against the Bangla Desh freedom movement, "the question (of) seeking any economic aid from America does not arise at all."

Britain, France, West Germany and other West European nations reportedly are ready to join in the Bengali relief effort to reduce Indian reliance on the Soviet Union. For practical political considerations, as well as for humanitarian ones, the U.S. also should participate.

Daley Backs Down

Two weeks ago Chicago Mayor and party boss Richard J. Daley emerged from a meeting of the Cook County Democratic organization's slating committee and announced that Edward V. Hanrahan would run for re-election as the county's state's attorney next year.

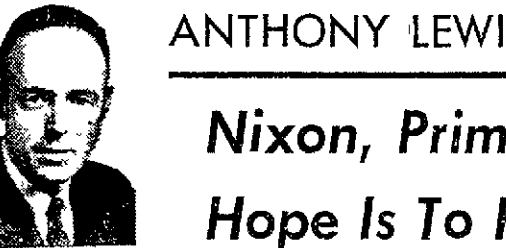

Hanrahan is under indictment on a charge of conspiring to obstruct justice in a case involving the deaths of two Chicago-area Black Panthers. On Dec. 4, 1969, the two black militants, Fred Hampton and Mark Clark, were shot and killed during an early morning raid by police attached to Hanrahan's office. While the authorities contended that police were returning hostile fire, survivors of the raid claim that Hampton and Clark were set up. The indictments stem from that incident.

As the committee's Democratic slate for county and state offices in 1972 was being presented, Mayor Daley shrugged off the indictment against Hanrahan by explaining that under the American system of justice, a man is innocent until proven guilty and Hanrahan has not been proven guilty. The slating committee was only upholding that principle, he said.

We wouldn't presume any guilt on the state's attorney's part, but we thought at the time it was an unfortunate choice for the committee—under Daley's direction—to make. Hanrahan might have been re-elected with the help of the machine but his slating was an unseemly stroke even for Daley.

This Monday Daley said Hanrahan would be replaced on the ticket by a traffic court judge, Raymond Berg. The removal of Hanrahan's name came as the result of strong protests by black leaders and liberal Democrats who thought that the slating, in light of the charges, was an insult. "We thought it (replacing Hanrahan) was in the best interests of all the people of the community," the mayor said. Even a boss can back down.

ANTHONY LEWIS Nixon, Prime Minister Meeting In Bermuda; Hope Is To Restore Old Habit Of Consultation

LONDON — When he took office as prime minister in June of 1970, Edward Heath was disturbed to find the old pattern of easy two-way communication between Britain and the United States "deteriorated sadly." So he put in six months later in an interview with Joseph Fromm of U.S. News and World Report.

As Heath meets President Nixon in Bermuda, that concern has not lessened. In the British government, indeed, the problem is seen more as a failure of communication not only between president and prime minister or between the two English-speaking powers but between America and her allies generally.

The reasons for the worry are not exactly a secret. In the last six months Nixon has made a series of foreign policy moves of the most dramatic character without consulting or even informing America's closest friends in advance. The outstanding examples have been the sudden approach to China and the Aug. 15 dollar demarche, with its protectionist measures imposed in violation of international agreement. It has been a period of unilateralism with a vengeance. . . . The British are old enough hands at the business of protecting national interests through diplomacy to avoid clucking about all this. They know that superpowers have rights, too — one of them, the right to change policy direction without telling everyone first when telling might weaken the desired impact of the change.

Nor would they deny that the West Europeans and the Japanese had come to take the U.S. too much for granted, so that a jolt had salutary aspects. British officials understand the changing realities of American power and public opinion.

But there is a special obligation on a country that leads an alliance of independent nations, as the U.S. does in Europe. That is to maintain among the allies an underlying respect for its judgment and responsibility, a conviction that its methods of policy-making are fundamentally reliable.

It is here that the new concern arises in Britain and all of Western Europe. There was, for example, the business of Peking's admission to the United Nations. Nixon's

Better Causes

Lincoln, Neb.

Onward, Christian soldiers. The ministers are moving to do battle with the forces of Satan, who is promoting the hideously evil rehash of the events of the late 60's.

The forces of righteousness have conjured up their case against the forces of evil with a letter, written by a mythical author, and describing mythical events.

That greatest of evil, a brief scene of nudity, can be seen daily in one's bathroom, unless one bathes fully clothed.

The totality of the evil spectacular is a replay of events known to every alert person who survived the 60's. The grave controversy allows both sides to line their pockets with money.

There are better causes on which to spend money. One cause is poverty. Fight poverty — put your money in a savings account.

MARLIN PALS

Help For Klimeks

Lincoln, Neb.

While we will be enjoying our Christmas vacations, the Klimeks will just be trying to survive. A farmer, Frank J. Klimek, of rural Loup City, was burned to death in a fire in his farm house. The surviving family are his wife and nine children, seven of whom are still in need of care. The farm house and all personal possessions were completely destroyed. The Klimeks have nothing now and are in need of clothing-goods and especially funds to get them on their feet.

A fund and clothing-goods drive is being initiated on the university campus and downtown Lincoln. The students can mail their checks directly to the Sherman County Bank in Loup City, made out to Mrs. Klimek. All clothing-goods (from students) can be taken to Room 116 of the Nebraska Union. The Lincoln residents can also mail their checks directly to the Sherman County Bank in Loup City, made out to Mrs. Loretta Klimek. Lincoln residents can take their clothing and goods to the YWCA in downtown Lincoln.

If both students and Lincoln residents are in need of transportation for their clothing and goods for the Klimeks, they may call the volunteer bureau, 472-2484.

The age ranges are from six to 18, boys and girls included, with all sizes up to 18.

The deadline date for clothing and goods is the morning of Dec. 28. There is NO deadline date for the checks.

The Extremes

Omaha, Neb.

The only war I am for is the gas war. Coming to Lincoln this time, I find a war about the musical play, "Hair." Now, it seems that we can disagree without being disagreeable. Convince man against his will and he'll be of the same opinion still.

Those who are for seeing the play tell us that those who are against don't have to go. Then we have others who are against going but don't give two hoots and a holler what the other fellow does.

There's only one thing all of us do have to do and that is to die. And often many will change their minds about things before they draw their last breath.

In the days of Noah, people were so busy buying, selling and trading that they ignored Noah's warning. The place to build a boat was on the water. But Noah told them he would let the water come up to the boat. Then they did laugh.

Then we have Cuba. Before the Reds took over, they preferred bull fighting to going to church. Pleasure was their god.

Here in our country, we have our extremes also. The hair-styles, for example. We call them "fur-bearing animals." But if we'd care to listen to them, we might be surprised to learn that they have something upstairs besides long hair.

J. W. CLAUSS

Early Report

Lincoln, Neb.

We comment the excellent Star editorial on Dec. 6 concerning the alleged case of police brutality against Cleveland Randolph which the Human Rights Commission is presently considering. We hope that the report of their findings will be made public as soon as possible and not be waylaid in the mayor's office. We are all anxious to help our community and our police department struggle for peace and justice, freedom and dignity.

G H. LIEN

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You discussed salmonella a few weeks ago. At the time it meant little to me so I didn't absorb the contents. I work in a 40-bed home for chronically ill, and recently seven residents were isolated with salmonella. I am the housekeeper, not on the nursing staff, so was not required to come in contact with these isolated residents. All employees had stool specimens examined. Mine was negative, but later I became ill, and another specimen was positive. I am required to stay home. have a specimen examined twice a week, and will be informed when I may return to work. All my questions have been evaded, but I am told no medicine is best. Exactly what is salmonella? Since I must stay at home, will I endanger my family? What can I do to hasten recovery? — W. M.

"Salmonella" is a rod-shaped germ, or bacterium, that causes intestinal upsets. There are, actually, several hundred varieties of this germ. Typhoid is one form, the most serious, and it of course requires specific treatment.

The rest can be lumped into forms causing "food poisoning" with nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and fever. It is possible to become infected but not immediately sick, which doubtless explains the delay in your case.

The infection is spread by food (or, of course, utensils in which food is prepared or served, with poultry products and prepared foods being most commonly involved.

It isn't always easy to trace the exact source of an outbreak — in your case, the germ evidently got into some food, whether from a person inside the nursing home or some food handler outside. But it got there, and the home is doing the right thing by isolating, or sending home, anyone carrying the germ (the purpose of the stool test is to find out who is).

Drug treatment ordinarily does no good, may even do more harm than good. The germ disappears suddenly without medication, but you should stay at home until that happens. This is determined by obtaining negative stool examinations.

To protect your family in the interim, avoid intimate contact; scrupulous cleanliness on your part is necessary, and all cooking utensils and dishes must be thoroughly washed. That's all you can or need do. You can't hasten recovery. Nature sets the pace.

If you have diarrhea, medication to relieve that is in order, and you can avoid dehydration by drinking plenty of fluids.

For most people, salmonella is an uncomfortable rather than a dangerous condition. Outbreaks are fairly common in institutions, and are especially serious in nurseries with small babies, since dehydration to a tiny infant is much more dangerous than in an adult.

But salmonella outbreaks are a very good reason for having rigid rules of cleanliness in kitchens.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A recent X-ray showed that I have a small bulla in the left lower lobe on the lung. Just what is this and what can be done to cure it? — R. L. R.

A bulla is a distended sac of air which can form on the outer surface of the lung.

If it ruptures and air escapes into the pleural space outside the lung, the lung collapses, and a situation known as pneumothorax results. It is not, I assure you, as serious as it may sound. The rupture, usually small, ordinarily heals fairly promptly. The air in the pleural space is either absorbed by nature or withdrawn by a hollow needle, and the lung returns to normal. (You may, perhaps remember that years ago, before we had the treatments that now exist, the lung of a tuberculosis patient often was caused to collapse deliberately, to give it time to rest and heal.)

However, saying that you might have pneumothorax is not by any means saying that you will. It is entirely unpredictable. In most cases, a bulla causes no discomfort or symptoms of any kind. It requires no treatment if it is small!

If the bulla is large, it can compress a normal lung to some degree, and in that case the bulla is removed surgically, after which the compressed portion of the lung promptly expands to normal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A relative, almost 70 and retired, sleeps almost constantly. Is this a disease? I have heard that it should be treated by a neurosurgeon. Can you give me any information? —Mrs. J. C.

It could be a form of narcolepsy, or abnormal urge to sleep. However, there are other possibilities: faulty thyroid functions, anemia, a little stroke, faulty nutrition.

I would suggest a thorough physical examination by your regular physician or internist before considering a neurologist or neurosurgeon.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is cod liver oil good for arthritis if taken on an empty stomach at night? Would it bypass the liver and go to the joints? I was told it would.—D.C.

The fiction about cod liver oil being "good for arthritis" and "lubricating the joints" is stubborn, long-lived notion, but it just doesn't work. In the first place, the cod liver oil is digested in the intestine, hence never can "bypass the liver" or reach the joints.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would cause a boy, 3 to drool from the mouth? He has no speech defect that I can detect but I have to remind him to swallow all day. He is intelligent for his age.—H.D.

I'm generally inclined to look for the most obvious causes first. You don't say how long this problem has been present, but the likeliest probability is teething. Sometimes tooth eruption can be quite uncomfortable and cause excess flow of saliva. If that is the case, it will subside shortly.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In what type of diabetes is Pork U40 NPH insulin used: I have diabetes but do not use pork; a friend does.—M.D.

The insulin usually used is a mixture derived from beef and pork pancreas. When an individual has a sensitivity to one of these sources, insulin from just the other can be obtained.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible. Copyright 1971, Field Enterprises, Inc.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Encyclopedia Won't Assure Good Grades

By ROBERT PETERSON
Question: — "Our grandson, 14, hasn't been doing well in high school. His parents don't seem to care and show no concern about his grades or homework habits. We live two blocks away and a salesman has been urging us to buy the boy a set of encyclopedia, presently offered at a discount price of $360. We're on a very pinched budget but would be willing to make this expenditure if we thought it would really help the boy. What do you think?"

Answer: — The boy has access to encyclopedias at school and it's doubtful if a set of these books at his bedside would have much effect on his marks. Good grades usually result when a child has a disciplined home environment with specific hours for doing his homework. A prevailing attitude of encouragement helps, too. If you really want to help the boy tell his parents that you're lonely and would enjoy having him stay at your house during the week. This way you could see that he does his homework and could give him the counsel and encouragement he's apparently not getting from his parents.

Question: — "Would you believe that my husband has taken me out to a restaurant only six times in 28 years of marriage? I figured it out the other day. He insists he likes home cooking and claims it's silly to go to a restaurant when he's married to a good cook. When I ask if he just married me for my cooking he always says yes — and I could hit him. Shouldn't there be a law that says husbands must take wives out to dinner once a month?"

Answer: — My wife would favor such a law — she says she'd rather be taken out to a fancy restaurant than have a new dress. Wives with stick-at-home husbands should indulge their passion for dining out by going to restaurants for lunch. Good cooks should also spoil the brother occasionally — this might jolt their stay-at-home husbands into taking them out to a restaurant.

Question: — "We have an aunt who has the best collection of antique dolls in the state. She keeps them in wall cases and won't let people touch them. Our four children are wild about going to her house, but when they do she makes them look at the dolls through the glass and stands around as nervous as a wet hen. What good is a collection if you can't touch it?"

Answer: — Many serious collectors lose their perspective and become overly fussy in guarding their treasures. It may not make sense, but it's their prerogative and we might as well be tolerant. Who knows — someday you may get the collecting bug and may be equally adamant about keeping your treasures out of the grubby fingers of children.

Commission Won't Buy James Ranch

By United Press International
Director Willard Barbee said Monday the State Game Commission will not purchase a 640-acre tract of school land as an addition to the Ft. Robinson recreational complex.

A portion of the complex known as the James Ranch, at $42 an acre or a total price of $26,880.

However, the State Board of Appraisers had set the value of the state-owned school land at $62 an acre or a total price of $39,680.

Searcy Eyes Senate Race

Having ruled out a House race, Donald Searcy of Kearney plans to make a final decision on a possible Senate candidacy in mid-January.

Searcy, a faculty member at Kearney State College, had been expected to enter the Democratic primary contest for the Third District congressional post.

But Searcy announced over the weekend that he will not challenge Ted Reeves of Central City for nomination to the seat now held by Republican Dave Martin.

After surveying his prospects, Searcy said, he was not convinced that the Democratic nominee has a good chance of unseating Martin.

The Democratic senatorial field already includes five announced candidates. At stake is the seat now held by republican Carl Curtis.

McCollister: Dollar Devaluation Great News For Midwest Farmer

Omaha (AP) — Rep. John Y. McCollister, R-Neb., Monday termed devaluation of the dollar is "great news for the midwest farmer."

He said the new fiscal policy will have a "really important influence" on the export of surplus agricultural products.

"I think this whole series of fiscal events is a spectacular achievement of the administration although benefits will not come at once."

It will take time, he said, to "turn the faucet" and for American firms to "go out and get" business abroad.

McCollister termed the shift of the Nixon policy on wage-price controls "one of the outstanding events of 1971," and declared the program has

Livestock Interests Warned By FBI Of Pair's Scheme

Omaha (UPI) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation Monday warned livestock interests in three states of at least two men engaged in an apparent confidence scheme which has already netted $75,000.

Fletcher D. Thompson, FBI special agent in charge of Nebraska and Iowa, said bogus cashiers checks or bank drafts recently were involved in cattle purchases in Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri.

Thompson said that all three of the drafts and checks were drawn on a Scottsbluff, Neb., bank for a $75,000 total.

In directing its warning to bankers, cattle auction companies and livestock growers in the three-state area, the FBI said two men "are believed involved in the scheme." They are of medium build, in their late 20s or early 30s and one reportedly has reddish hair.

Thompson urged those having contact with the men to notify the nearest FBI office. No further details, such as where the checks were cashed or interests involved were being released.

been "mostly successful," noting that "a lot of attention has been given to the exceptions while success will be measured in terms of overall progress."

Summing up his first year in the House of Representatives, McCollister declared he had kept his campaign promises.

He said he is "proud of what President Nixon has accomplished this year. I've had some rather plain disagreements on the economic policy, but this is pretty much resolved now," he said.

"I was upset at the appointment of Earl Butz as agriculture secretary but I am willing to consider that the man may do a pretty good job of it."

He said he hopes the Senate kills the welfare reform bill passed by the House declaring that the bill would double the number on relief rolls and "doesn't seem to be the right approach."

He said he "would like to see some kind of understanding on Congress of a limitation on government expenditures. It should not be difficult to hold the fiscal 1973 or 1974 levels to the levels of 1972."

Montie Montana Seeks $20,000 From State

By United Press International

It was learned Monday attorneys for the producer of the wild west show at North Platte last summer have issued notice to Nebraska saying it must pay $20,000 or be sued.

The notice was contained in a letter from Santa Ana, Calif., law firm of Nagel, Reagan, and Davidson Inc.

The firm, representing Montie Montana Jr., was dated Dec. 13 and was sent to various state officials. The letter was released Monday by the governor's office.

The letter states Nebraska must pay the money to Montana within 10 days of the date sent or "face litigation."

Montana, who produced the North Platte show under the name of the "Buffalo Bill Wild West Show and Congress of Rough Riders," contends the state owes him the money to cover the cost of its share in a lawsuit, against him by the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus.

The producer also contends it was because of the costly lawsuit that the show folded.

In a contract between him and the State Game Commission, Montana was given the right to use the name for his production. In return, he would take care of the North Platte event.

However, the circus filed suit saying it had exclusive rights to the use of the name. Montana says because the state was involved in the contract, it had an obligation to assist him in the legal fight over the use of the name.

But the attorney general's office has held the state cannot honor such an obligation.

Assistant Attorney General Mel Kammerlohr reported recently he was in contact with Montana and he had agreed to meet with state officials.

Kammerlohr reported Montana has not been back in touch with him about the meeting since the first call, which was made before the Dec. 13 letter was written by the California law firm seeking payment of the money.

Driving On Suspended License Spotted Easier

Department of Motor Vehicles Director John Kissack unveiled an automated system Monday which should result in a "100% improvement" in efforts to keep drivers whose licenses have been suspended off the roads.

The new data processing unit just installed last Friday keeps a record of all 15,000 drivers in Nebraska with suspended licenses. So whenever a law enforcement officer stops someone whom he thinks is driving under a suspended license, the matter can be checked out in a matter of seconds.

All the officer needs to do now is to call State Patrol headquarters anytime and information is only seconds away, he said.

The department noted that approximately 1,500 drivers with suspended licenses get a second license while they are under suspension.

Previously officers risked the danger of a false arrest, because the information was not readily accessible, Kissack explained.

Currently, the State Patrol is the sole agency with direct access to the records; but eventually Kissack hopes all agencies with a National Crime Reporting System terminal will have direct access.

And the whole system did not cost the state a cent, Kissack said, because the project is financed and developed by the Insurance Institute of Highway Safety to the tune of $12,000 and the Mid-America Research Center.

Kissack also noted a new seal has been added to the drivers' licenses in an effort to cut down on forgeries along with a special stamp. County clerks should begin using the new seals January, 1.

Pupil Absentee Rates Show 'Flu Bug' Active In Lincoln

Pupil absentee rates at four Lincoln public schools topped the 10% mark Monday, as students were hit with some kind of "flu bug."

Don Ferguson, chief public relations officer for the schools, said the abnormally high rates were attributed to "some kind of virus."

He said there were reports of youngsters with higher than normal temperatures, but he added school officials have not yet definitely identified the illness.

Highest absentee rate was reported at Mickie Junior High, where 13% of the students were out Monday. Culler Junior High reported 12% absent, and Calvert and Meadow Lane Elementary Schools both said 10% were absent.

At Bethany Elementary, the rate was high, but had not hit 10%, he said.

Ferguson said schools report absentee rates to the head of nursing services when the rate is 10% or higher.

He said a number of teachers were also home with the "bug" in those schools.

4-Alarm Blaze Razes Feed Mill

Omaha (AP) — The third four-alarm fire in Omaha history burned out of control for nearly two hours Monday at the Benson Feed Mill here.

The blaze erupted shortly after 4:30 p.m. and Fire Chief Vernon Van Scoy declared the blaze under control just after 6:30 p.m.

Van Scoy said the building was completely destroyed, however firemen were able to save an adjoining building which he said was an automotive parts dealer.

Firemen were hampered in their efforts to control the flames as they were forced to pump water from as far away as three blocks, officials said.

Officials had not determined the cause of the blaze nor had a dollar estimate been set on the loss.

Public Hearings On Dairy Prices Are Halted Pending Court Action

The chairman of the Nebraska Dairy Products Board said Monday no further public hearing would be held pending the outcome of a lawsuit challenging the Dairy Products Pricing Act.

Chairman Sam Davidson of Lincoln noted requests for boundary changes in the natural marketing areas called for in the act had been scheduled for public hearing Jan. 5.

However, late last month, the Lancaster County District Court issued an injunction barring the law from going into effect.

Davidson said further action by the board would be unnecessary until the lawsuit has finally been decided, and he said the hearings were continued indefinitely.

"Institution of a lawsuit restraining the director of agriculture from implementing the certifications made to him by the board make any further determinations by the board moot until such time as the courts have acted upon the suit now pending," Davidson said.

The suit challenging the act, designed to stop predatory trade practices in the dairy industry, was filed by Safeway Stores Inc.

A 12-year-old boy shot an arrow into the air, according to a police report Monday.

It fell to earth—almost. Damage to a car windshield was estimated at $117.

Baker Is Denied Parole

Washington (UPI) — Robert G. "Bobby" Baker, former protégé of Lyndon B. Johnson, was denied parole Monday from a one-to-three-year sentence for tax evasion, larceny and fraud.

But the eight-member U.S. Board of Parole granted anti-war priest Daniel Berrigan a new hearing Jan. 26 on grounds of his failing health.

Visit Santa's Cottage

Visit Santa in his new, colorful Cottage at 12th and O in Downtown Lincoln. He has a special treat for all his little friends. Santa's hours: Monday through Friday from 2:30 to 4:30 and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Baker, 43, had his case continued for the presentation of "further information" and a new hearing in April. He began serving his sentence at the Lewisburg, Pa., Federal Prison Jan. 15 and became eligible for parole as of next Jan. 13.

Baker parlayed his job as secretary to the Senate Democrats into a million-dollar fortune by using his influence.

The vote by the board was not disclosed in either case.

Berrigan, 51, was sentenced Nov. 8, 1968, to three years for destruction of government property in connection with a raid on the Catonsville, Md., Selective Service offices that year.

He and his brother Philip Berrigan, also a priest, the central figure in the kidnapping plot involving White House aide Henry Kissinger, are both in prison at the Federal Corrections Institute at Danbury, Conn.

The board also denied parole to Anthony De Angelis, 56, key figure in a multimillion-dollar fraud involving salad oil, margarine and shortening. The board set December 1972 for its next review of his case.

De Angelis, the so-called "salad oil king" from New Jersey, will become eligible Jan. 27 after serving one-third of a 20-year sentence for transporting nearly $100 million worth of false and forged securities across state lines. He began serving his sentence at Lewisburg Jun. 15, 1965.

The board did grant parole to Calvin Kovens, 47, a co-defendant with former Teamsters president James R. Hoffa in a union pension fraud case. It was the second time Kovens had applied for parole since he began serving a three-year indeterminate sentence at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., Feb. 13. He will be released May 1.

NU Study On Student Fees Draws 'Whitewash' Charge

One of the students who have filed a suit challenging the constitutionality of University of Nebraska student fees has charged NU with trying to "whitewash" a study of the issue.

Bruce Wimmer, a student at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL) and vice president of a student group known as the Committee for Undisrupted Education (CUE), said a special committee appointed to study the question is a "one-sided committee."

CUE called on NU President D. B. Varner to appoint to the committee a student or faculty member who does not favor current policy "of forcing students to support political ideologies with which they do not agree."

He called the committee appointed by Varner to study fees "one-sided, grossly unfair and... a mockery of the Regents resolution on fees."

The Regents called for the study at their December meeting. Wimmer and three other CUE members have filed a suit in Lancaster District Court attempting to halt collection of fees.

Dr. Lampshire Asks $81,044 In Injury Suit

A $81,044 suit was filed in Lancaster District Court Monday by Dr. Earl L. Lampshire in connection with a two-car collision Oct. 13, 1970.

Dr. Lampshire alleges negligence on the part of the defendant, Patrick W. Reddy, in that he failed to maintain proper lookout and control of his vehicle, failed to yield the right of way and was traveling at a speed which was greater than reasonable when his vehicle struck the Lampshire vehicle at 29th and N.

As a result of the accident, the plaintiff alleges he suffered multiple permanent injuries and a fractured elbow.

Robbery Charges

Turin, Italy (AP) — Police charged a 43-year-old Italian man with robbing his estranged wife. According to officers, the woman said he entered the shop where she worked, grabbed her by the neck and demanded money, so she gave him $50 from the cash register.

Apparent Arson Cases Probed In Gage County

Beatrice (UPI) — The Gage County Sheriff's Dept. announced Monday it is investigating eight cases of apparent arson.

Sheriff Fred Steinkamp said all the fires took place in the Adams area Saturday and Sunday nights.

Sunday night, three houses, all abandoned but all serviceable, were set afire. One, belonging to Frank Sorenson and located seven miles northeast of Filley, was destroyed. The others, one owned by George Spellman 5½ miles southwest of Adams and the other by Fred Weber 3½ miles northwest of Adams, were badly damaged.

Also set afire was a shed owned by Leonard Pardee and a granary owned by Don McPherson, both of the Adams area.

On Saturday, a corn crib was set afire and there were several grass or stubble fires set.

The first fire reported Sunday broke out about 8 p.m. The last one was set about 2 a.m. Monday.

The Gage County Sheriff's Dept. and state fire marshal were collaborating on the investigation.

Federal Veterinarians Seek Brucellosis Cure

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Federal veterinarians are united in solid opposition to abortion and are working toward its eradication in the entire United States.

The kind of abortion they are concerned with is also known as Bang's Disease, or more properly as Brucellosis. The disease causes cows to lose their calves and is known in humans as undulant fever.

"The success in getting rid of Hog Cholera has encouraged the federal animal health people to take an increasingly strong position on the bovine disease which also occurs in hogs," said Glenn Kreuscher, director of agriculture.

Target Date Set

The target date for national eradication of the disease, which can ruin a cattleman, is Dec. 31, 1975. The current standard being enforced in Nebraska is that 5% of the cattle in a county must be tested for the disease each year for a period of three years if the state is to remain modified-certified Brucellosis free.

The State Federal Brucellosis Laboratory, tucked away in a basement room of the Statehouse in Lincoln, has been upgraded to the point where a record for processing samples was reached in November when 70,463 were processed for the month and 4,924 in a single day.

A few counties in Nebraska have not been testing enough cattle to qualify. In 16 of the counties the problem was largely one or two large ranches in the county. This has been whittled down to 8 problem operators in 7 counties.

Herds Must Be Tested

Dr. R. S. Sherman, acting administrator for animal health for USDA has informed the state Department of Agriculture that these herds must be tested by Feb. 1, 1972 or the state legal officer (attorney general) have filed an action against them or the county will lose its certification.

This would in effect ban the sale of any animal in the county without a test, and would cripple a rancher in his livestock marketing operation.

"We cannot allow who one rancher in the county who fails to test to work a hardship on the rest of the cattleman in the county," said Kreuscher. Under present regulations, no rancher would be able to sell so much as one calf to a neighbor if the county is not certified.

Regulations Tightened

"A number of states are moving to tighten their regulations and it is becoming increasingly difficult to move cattle out of state from untested herds," Kreuscher explained.

The State Department of Agriculture has prepared an action program designed to rid the state of the disease and has submitted the proposal to representatives of the various livestock organizations in the state for their comment.

Kreuscher believes that most of the effort can be accomplished by regulatory hearings by the state department. "We may need some legislation to clear up specific problems, but what we really need is cooperation by all livestock people to settle this problem," he added.

The physical problem of collecting several hundred to several thousand cattle on a Nebraska ranch is very real. "The officials of the eastern states don't understand why we haven't ended this disease long ago but it is quite simple. Our pastures are so large that the cattle cannot be easily collected for the test which requires a sample of blood from each animal," he said.

The tests will have to be run when all cattle in the state are sold with further testing required in herds found to have a reactor to the test. The alternative is to create an embargo against Nebraska livestock by other states.

State Retains Criminal Jurisdiction In Crimes Occurring On Indian Land

Washington (AP) — The Supreme Court let stand Monday a Nebraska Supreme Court ruling that the state still has criminal jurisdiction over offenses committed on Indian land although it has offered to give up some jurisdiction to the federal government.

The court rejected the petition brought by Wayne Goham and Dennis Tyndall, Indians who were convicted of raping a girl on the Omaha Indian Reservation in Nebraska. The rape, which took place in Big Elk Park, was on July 26, 1969.

Goham was convicted of kidnapping and rape while Tyndall was convicted of kidnapping, rape and of being a habitual criminal.

The basic question is who should have authority to prosecute crimes occurring on the Indian land.

Nebraska offered to turn over jurisdiction to the federal government and the Omaha and Winnebago tribes. The secretary of the interior accepted the offer for the Omaha but refused it for the Winnebago because that tribe objected.

The Nebraska Supreme Court ruled May 28, 1971, that it was the right of the state to decide what jurisdiction it was giving up. Since the federal government did not accept the total offer, the state court said the offer was withdrawn.

Attorneys for the two Indians contended that it was up to the secretary of the interior to decide how much of an offer to accept. They said once any part was accepted, jurisdiction went over to the United States and the tribes.

A friend of the court petition filed by the native American Rights Fund supported the request of Goham and Tyndall that the high court hear the case.

That petition notified the Supreme Court that the federal government had filed suit in federal district court in Nebraska to keep the state and the law officers of Wallhill, Neb., from exercising any jurisdiction over the Omaha Indians on the reservation.

It said the federal government was contending in that suit that it and the Omahas achieved jurisdiction over the Omaha land on Oct. 25, 1970, when the secretary of interior accepted the Omaha part of the Nebraska offer.

1.77 Million Bushels Corn Bought By Ag Department

Washington (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced Monday it bought 1.77 million bushels of corn from midwestern markets in the second weekly round of purchases aimed at beefing up prices farmers get for the feed grain.

The latest purchase raised to almost 3.2 million bushels the amount of corn bought thus far in the special program. A total of 13.9 million bushels was offered for sale to the government.

Officials said the price ranges reflect the differences in location of the grain and costs of rail transportation. The purchases announced Monday were made in Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa.

A week earlier the department bought 1,425 million bushels from offers totaling 15.9 million.

"Fortunately," he said, "the three destroyed buses were older models."

He said the buses were insured for $4,000 each.

While the 29 buses remaining in the fleet is the minimum necessary for full operation, a three-week reprieve has been given LTS because the university is going on vacation and four buses are required to shuttle students between the City Campus and the East Campus.

Asked if additional buses may be rented or purchased as spares, Rae said it is not contemplated at this time.

"Keep buses running" "We plan to keep the remaining buses running until spring," said Rae, and "work overtime shifts of mechanics, if necessary, to keep them going."

Rae said a meeting with bus drivers has been called for Monday night in the County City Building.

"We are going to tell them what we're up against and lay down some strict operating rules," he said. "It will be up to the drivers as much as the mechanical crew to make the buses last until April 15 when our new buses will arrive."

Rae asked the forbearance of bus patrons until all buses can be cleaned thoroughly.

Rae said additional heating equipment has been installed in the bus garage until all window glass can be replaced.

Street Resurfacing Stalled At Beatrice

By Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Beatrice — A $370,000 resurfacing proposed for 12 blocks of East Court St. ran into a wall of opposition Monday night, forcing the City Council to at least a closer look before proceeding.

Only an insufficient vote of 4-3 could be mustered to suspend the rule for a first reading, thus leaving the measure somewhat in limbo until further consideration at the next meeting. Technically, there was no official action after a half-dozen abutting property owners voiced objections.

One main suggestion was that the Board of Public Works (BPW), initiator of the improvement district, look into the possibilities of federal funding. It was pointed out that property owners' costs could thus be lowered substantially from the $5-dollar per front foot now estimated.

BPW manager George Schmucker agreed to inquire but predicted a delay of "at least two or three years" if that procedure is followed.

Clarence Hullman, one of the area residents, suggested that "if we are going to do it at all, let's do it right by getting federal funds and going four lanes." He and several others also urged that trucks be routed around the street, which is also U.S. 136.

Bill Johnson argued that "property owners already have fulfilled their responsibility once and shouldn't be nailed again and again just because traffic has increased."

On another street matter, a resolution ordering in one to

Hide Away Order Denied; To Stay Closed

Omaha (AP)—District Court Judge Samuel Caniglia refused Monday to grant a temporary restraining order against the city of Omaha which would have allowed the Hide Away Lounge to remain open pending action of its appeal of a license revocation order.

The judge ordered the lounge to remain closed until Thursday when its attorney, Walter Matejka, is expected to file further briefs in support of his request for a restraining order.

Matejka contends the city has no right to interfere with the operation of the lounge since appeal of the revocation order was taken to the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission.

Frank Paladino, the owner, had reopened the lounge featuring topless entertainment in spite of the fact the City Council had ordered his liquor license revoked under an ordinance forbidding topless entertainment at establishments where liquor is sold.

Wettest November In 40 Years

Southeast Nebraska had its wettest November in 40 years this year, the Lincoln office of the National Weather Service reported. Precipitation averaged 3.21 inches during the month in the southeast. Remaining Buses Still Covering Routes

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

All bus routes were being covered Monday by the 29 city buses and four mini-buses that survived the early morning fire in the Lincoln Transportation System (LTS) Garage on J between 7th and 8th.

"It was a near disaster," said LTS Manager Gerald Rae. "We are left with only the absolute minimum number of buses required for our routes."

Two buses were destroyed in the fire, and a third was so severely damaged it will be "cannibalized" for parts.

Rae said more than a dozen drivers and mechanics came in after the blaze had been extinguished to clean up the buses and put them in operable condition.

Temporary repairs have been made to the damaged building, according to Rae, but no attempt will be made to make permanent repairs until they can be included in the general remodeling previously planned to begin in February.

Roof Reinforced

The fire-damaged steel roof structure has been reinforced and shored up and new temporary lighting circuits installed, he said. By Tuesday all the broken glass in the building will be replaced.

Rae said no dollar estimate of building damage was available, but noted the structure was covered by a $115,000 insurance policy.

"Fortunately," he said, "the three destroyed buses were older models."

He said the buses were insured for $4,000 each.

While the 29 buses remaining in the fleet is the minimum necessary for full operation, a three-week reprieve has been given LTS because the university is going on vacation and four buses are required to shuttle students between the City Campus and the East Campus.

Asked if additional buses may be rented or purchased as spares, Rae said it is not contemplated at this time.

Country Club Manor
Skyline Terrace
South Hills
Meadow Lane

in the suburban areas

Final preparations are well underway for the Christmas weekend which is rapidly approaching — and most thoughts are centering around this most festive of holidays. However, many suburban residents have taken time out of their traditional family Christmas plans to entertain their friends at pre-holiday parties.

The Skyline Terrace home of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Linebaugh was the site of a festive get-together on Saturday evening, Dec. 18. The party took on a holiday air when four couples gathered at the Linebaugh home for cocktails and hors d'oeuvres.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Gus Johns, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alley, and Mr. and Mrs. Duane Schweitzer.

Looking forward to welcoming a family member home for the holidays are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ellsworth. Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth's daughter, Miss Elizabeth Ellsworth will arrive on Thursday from Minneapolis, Minn. where she is a student at the University of Minnesota. She will be in Lincoln until Tuesday, Jan. 4, when she will return to Minneapolis.

Turning our thoughts and calendars back to last Thursday afternoon, we find that Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Paulson of Country Club Manor served as host and hostess to a group from the East Lincoln Christian Church.

The group, composed of members of Mrs. Ella Wassung's Wide Awake Sunday School Class, gathered at the Paulson home for a covered dish luncheon and Christmas gift exchange.

Assisting hostesses for the party were class members and Mrs. Paulson's sisters, Mrs. Sarah Heller and Mrs. Emma Lintt.

But Christmas is not the only word from suburban neighborhoods this morning — for there are two young misses who recently were guests of honor at celebrations of another kind.

Birthday Day — Thursday, Dec. 16 — was anything but ordinary for Miss Jill Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hoffman of South Hills. The second grader at Merle Beattie School became eight years old on that special day — and after-school activities for the young Miss centered around that fact.

Upon her return from school, she invited four of her neighborhood friends to her home for a birthday snack. The guests were Scott, Todd, Kipp, and T. J. Haight.

Refusing to shirk certain obligations on that day, Miss Hoffman willingly attended her dance class — but then the surprise happened.

You see, while the birthday girl was attempting new dance steps, her brother, J., was at home busily preparing and decorating for a surprise pizza party for his sister, who is three and one-half years his junior.

When the junior dancer finally returned home, she was greeted at the door by her friends, Miss Sarah Capek, Miss Michelle Donner, Miss Susan Howerter, Miss Susan Johnson, Miss Beth Reier, Miss Karyn Ruliffson, and Miss Barbara Wattjes.

Also celebrating a birthday last week was Miss Connie Runge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Runge of Meadow Lane. Miss Runge became a ten-year-old on Saturday, Dec. 18, and to celebrate the occasion she invited a group of friends to join her for an afternoon of roller skating.

Taking part in the skating — and the party which followed at the Runge home — were Darlene Watson, Terri Bester, Maralee Nelson, Noel Janicek, Jo Anne Crowel and Lisa Brady.

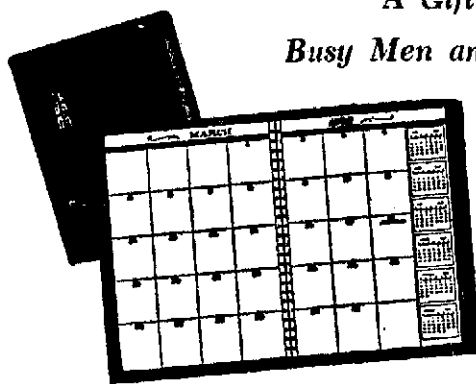

Making plans for a Christmas holiday away from home are Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson and daughters, Christine, Cathy and Melody. The Johnsons will motor to North Platte where they will spend Christmas Eve at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wellington. Also taking part in the holiday get-together will be Mrs. Johnson's brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wellington, and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Wellington and family, all of North Platte.

On Christmas Day, the family will gather for dinner at the home of Mrs. Johnson's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Craig of North Platte.

Birthday Observance

Dr. Margaret McCoy, a former Lincoln chiropractor, will celebrate her 92nd birthday on Saturday, Dec. 25. Dr. McCoy has been a Lincoln resident since 1920, and was a practicing chiropractor from 1923 through last October.

discovering that West started with all the missing trumps. South doesn't know it yet, but it is already too late to recover from this blow. Regardless of how he now plays the hand, he winds up going down one.

Suppose he plays a diamond to the ace and takes a trump finesse. It works, all right, but the problem of escaping a heart loser remains. South cannot successfully resolve this problem, whether he draws trumps at once or does anything else.

When declarer wins the heart return at trick four, he should first cash the ace of diamonds before leading a trump to the ace. Learning of the 4-0 trump division, he overcomes it by ruffing a diamond, taking a trump finesse, ruffing another diamond and then cashing the K-Q of trumps.

South's heart loser is discarded on dummy's last trump and he scores the last two tricks with the K-Q of hearts.

Cashing the ace of diamonds at trick five, before tackling trumps, makes a world of difference in the result. The possibility of West's having four trumps is considered in advance, and preparations are made to deal with it.

Opening lead—jack of clubs.

Declarer must do a certain amount of early planning to get the most out of his cards. He cannot expect to do well if he confines his thoughts solely to the play of each individual trick by itself. He must also consider the play of the hand as a whole.

Take this hand where it would be easy to go wrong. West leads the jack of clubs and the defenders cash three club tricks. East then returns the six of hearts.

Let's say South wins with the ace and starts to draw trumps by playing a spade to the ace,

TOWN TALK

According to an oft-quoted saying of anonymous origin, "the best gifts come in small packages" — and this morning we'd like to confirm the validity of that statement by relating a bit of news that will be of interest to Lincoln residents.

The "small package" we have reference to is Master Matthew Seaton Woller, who made his world debut on Friday, Dec. 17 — just in time for the holidays. The young man's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Paul Woller of Easton, Md., and his mother is the former Miss Sarah Srb.

Completing Matthew's family circle are his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo F. Srb, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Woller of Sutton.

Master Woller is not the only recent addition to the Srb family however — he has a cousin who is a mere three months his senior. Arriving on Monday, Sept. 13, was Alexander Franklin Srb, and he just happens to be the son of Mr. and Mrs. Srb's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Srb of Portland, Conn. The young man's maternal grandparents are Mrs. Lewis E. Nolan of Ashville, N.C., and Howard T. Knapp of North Bergen, N.J.

The list of holiday arrivals has been increasing daily, and included among those who recently welcomed an out-of-state visitor are Mr. and Mrs. B. Frank Watson. Currently a houseguest at the Watson home is Phillip Aubrey of New York City.

Mr. Aubrey, who is a cousin of Mrs. Watson, arrived in Lincoln on Saturday, and we understand that this is his very first trip west. He will be in Lincoln through Friday.

Arriving recently from her home in Tucson, Ariz., was Mrs. A. Q. Schimmel who is being entertained at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Chesen. Mrs. Schimmel will also spend a bit of time in Omaha during her holiday visit.

Last week we mentioned several visitors who will join Mr. and Mrs. Dean Forke for the holidays. Among the guests is their daughter, Miss Lynda Forke, who arrived on Saturday from Columbia, Mo., where she is a sophomore at Columbia College.

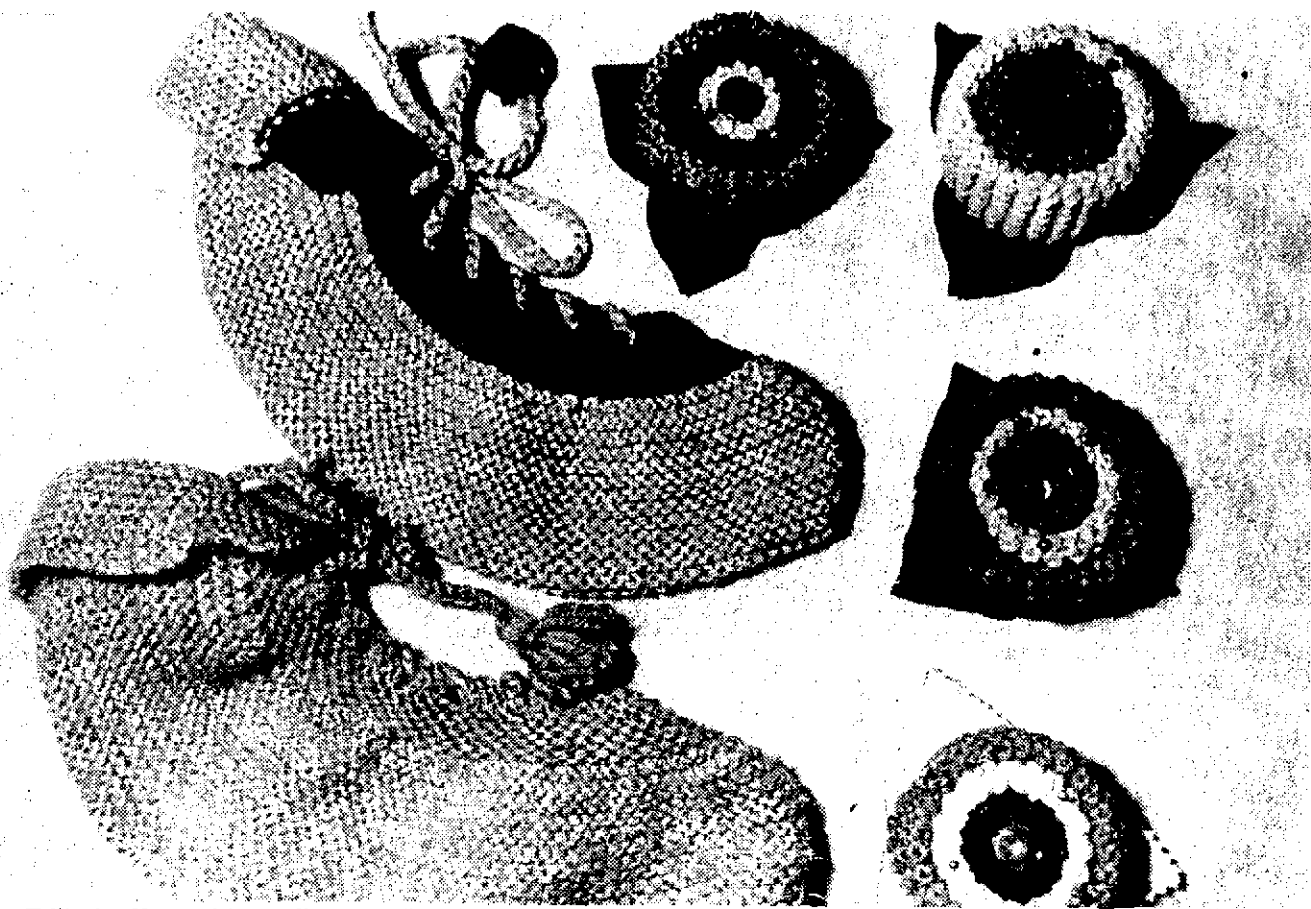

Accompanying Miss Forke to Lincoln for the holidays was her classmate, Miss Adeline Lopez, who hails from El Paso, Tex.

The coeds will remain at the Forke residence through the New Year.

Lincoln residents will have an interest in the approaching marriage of Mrs. Virginia Duxbury to Virgil Parker III. The ceremony will be solemnized Sunday evening, Dec. 26.

Mrs. Duxbury is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Ralles; and Mr. Parker's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Virgil A. Parker Jr. of Tucson, Ariz.

Do It Yourself—the personal touch

Editor's Note: The following directions have been provided by Miss Marian Collins, instructor of creative craft classes for the Consumer and Homemaking Division of the Lincoln Technical College.

Knitted lounging socks will make a unique and useful holiday gift for those of all ages who suffer from that common winter malady—cold feet; and hand-knit pin cushions will be just the thing for those seamstresses on your Christmas list.

The materials necessary to make the stockings include two ounces of 4-Ply knitting worsted in color selected for front of sock (color A); four ounces of 4-Ply knitting worsted in color selected for remainder of sock (color B); 1 pair of No. 6 knitting needles; and one No. 4 bone crochet hook for making laces.

Cast on 40 stitches in color A and knit back and forth for ½ inch (garter stitch). One next row, knit 2 stitches * knit 2 together; yarn over needle; knit 2. Repeat from * across, ending with knit 4.

In the following row, knit across, treating the "yarn over needle" as a stitch. In this way, you will still have 40 stitches on needle, and will have made one row of eyelets through which to draw laces.

Continue knitting every row, until work measures 1½ inches.

At the beginning of next row, tie on color B; then knit across row, making 2 stitches in each stitch of preceding row, thus increasing to 80 stitches. Continue knitting every row, until work done in color B measures 5 inches.

Tie on color A, at same side of work where previous color joining was made, and work across row in knitting—knitting 2 stitches together all the way across—thereby decreasing to 40 stitches again.

Knit for 1 inch. On following row, knit 2 stitches, *knit 2 together; yarn over needle; knit 2. Repeat from * across row, ending with knit 4. In the following row, knit across, treating the "yarn over needle" as a stitch to complete your other row of eyelets. Continue knitting until work in color A measures 1½ inches, or entire work measures 8 inches. Bind off.

Fold work in half so that two "front edges" face each other. Sew work together on wrong side along one of the short (4 inch) ends. This makes the toe of sock.

To make the laces, make a slip loop in the yarn and draw yarn through the loop with the crochet hook. Continue to draw through each new loop formed until the chain reaches the required length. Crochet a chain 40 inches long in color used for the sole of sock, leaving loose end of yarn about 2 inches long at each end of chain. Lace chain through eyelets in front of sock, the same as shoes are laced, being certain the laces are kept even and ends come together at top of sock.

To make tassels, using both colors at the same time, wind the double strand around four fingers ten times. Tie windings together at top with one of the loose ends of lacing chain. Bind tassel strands together about ½ inch below tie. Cut loops at bottom end of tassel. Make tassel for other end of laces in same manner.

Repeat entire process for second sock.

In order to make the pin cushions, you will need small amounts of knitting worsted yarn in three colors: size 8 knitting needles; scraps of green felt; a thimble; white glue; and decorative pins.

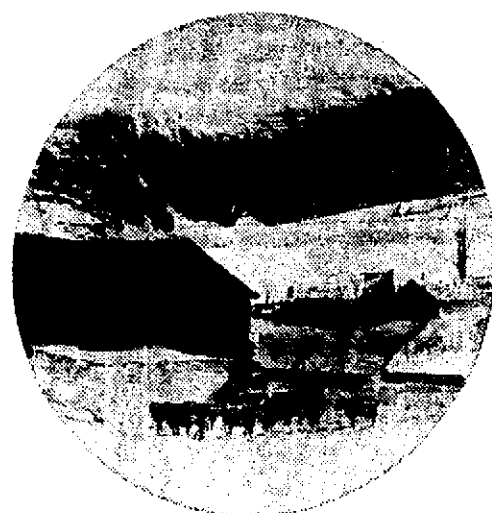

To make the center ring out of color A, cast on 15 stitches. Work in garter stitch (knit each row) for 24 rows. Bind off. For the middle ring, cast on 15 stitches of color B, and work in garter stitch for 36 rows. Bind off. The outer ring is made by casting on 15 stitches with color C. Work in garter stitch for 56 rows. Bind off.

Next, cut three leaf-shaped pieces from the green felt.

To finish the item, sew the bound-off edge to the cast-on edge of each piece, forming three circles. Fold each piece in half lengthwise; and overcast through both thicknesses for lower edge. Place rings around each other and sew bottom to secure. Insert thimble in center. Glue leaves in place at the lower edge; and insert the decorative pins.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Tuesday

A survey, conducted at four Oklahoma City hospitals, revealed that more babies were born between three and four in the morning—that more babies were born in August and that fewer births occurred in April.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A friend ship is dissolved if you ask too many questions. Have faith. Your desires will be fulfilled. Key is to overcome skepticism that is not justified. This will become increasingly clear.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Accept additional assignment. Responsibility now coincides with greater reward. Standing in community is on upswing. Personal superior pays meaningful compliment. Head voice of experience.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Spread ideas and influence. Enlarge horizons—mental and spiritual. Aries individual could play key role as receptive. But also make sure your own style gets across. No need to take back seat.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): New approach to partnership deal is required. You need added room, independence. Key is to assert needs in reasonable manner. Others then will respond.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Obtain valid hint from Cancer message. Take nothing for granted. Give intuitive intellect a chance to work. Aquarius person may play important role. Unorthodox ideas now are ones most likely to succeed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Stress versatility. Have alternative methods at hand. Be willing to laugh at own foibles. Humor now proves greatly. Emphasis is on health, work, ability to accept constructive suggestions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Stress creative approach. Don't follow or imitate. Set your own pace. Be considerate toward children, but know when to draw line. Be fair but firm. Data is now assume additional importance. Be thorough.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Obtain hint from Libra message. Know that what might seem superficial could be important. Always read between lines—check fine print. Emphasis is on home security improvement of property.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may be hurrying here there and every where. Key is to concentrate efforts. Finish one thing before starting in another area. You expand interests and are consulted by neighbors, relatives.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Money interests are highlighted. Review values. May not be necessary to rearrange personal priorities. One you took for granted may act in unusual manner. Be perceptive. Check resources.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Lunar cycle is such that you can successfully initiate projects. Trust judgment in tuition. You are on target. Personal magnetism soars. Many are drawn to you. You can put across special program.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Look behind scenes. Obtain hint from Capricorn message. Find out what it is you really desire. Key is to be truthful—with yourself. Better now for finishing rather than beginning projects. Act accordingly.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have delightful sense of humor. You often exhibit tendency to scatter forces. You need outlet for self expression. Writing music, drama—these could fill bill. Your credo is apt to be open road and open mind. You abhor proverbial stuffed shirt. Recent change in home will prove beneficial.

Abby: a variety of responses to readers' question

DEAR READERS: Yesterday I published the letter which I asked my readers to help me answer. Briefly, an employee was invited to a housewarming party by his boss, whose wife had been sent to Europe to die following cancer surgery. The boss's girl friend moved in as soon as the sick wife moved out. The employee said if he didn't go he would lose his job. The wife disagreed. Should they go, or shouldn't they? I asked my readers. Here are some of the most quotable replies:

"Don't go. Instead, send them a donation to the American Cancer Society in his wife's name with the following message, 'Why a housewarming party for you two? Wait a while. Where you will be spending eternity you won't need to warm anything.'" (Chicago Today, Man and wife.)

"Go! I think the boss rates an A Plus for living the way he wants to without giving a damn what others think." (Male, Seattle Times.)

"Whatever happened to decency and honor? Don't go, but make up a good excuse." (Male, Buffalo Courier; Express.)

"Don't go. Who needs this 'crumb-bum'? He's incapable of loyalty to either wife or employee." (Male, Philadelphia Bulletin.)

"Go. And don't prejudice. Just because the wife had cancer surgery doesn't qualify her for sainthood." (St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Female.)

"Don't go. I would rather support an unemployed husband than have him work for such a rat!" (Omaha World-Herald.)

"Go! How others live is none of my business. My husband's job is!" (San Diego Union.)

"Don't go. A man has to have guts and principles if it costs him his job." (Milwaukee Sentinel, Man.)

"I'd find somebody with mumps and expose myself and my husband to them and say we're in quarantine!" (Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

"Stay home! If the boss invited you and your wife to a weekend wife-swapping party, would you feel compelled to go?" (Atlanta Constitution.)

"Go. Why be a moralist? That's God's job! (Louisville Courier, Female.)

"The trouble with society today is too many people are closing their eyes and holding their noses and going. Decline!" (Boston Record-American, Female.)

"I'd tell my boss to shove his invitation and I'd start job hunting." (Male, Detroit News.)

"The husband should go and say his wife couldn't make it as she is dying of cancer, but she always lets him get away for a good cause." (Minneapolis Star, Male.)

"Go! Judge not, lest ye be judged." (Female, Portland Oregonian.)

"Go to the party. Not because your first consideration is to your husband (what utter rot!) but because you refuse to sit in judgment of another human being." (Woman, Cincinnati Inquirer.)

"I vote go, but leave early. Why make waves?" (Woman, Washington Star.)

Sorortiy Probe Not Local Incident

Charges of racial discrimination against an unidentified University of Nebraska sorority apparently involve its national affiliation, rather than a local incident, interim chancellor Peter Magrath said Monday.

Magrath said an investigation of the sorority is expected to be finished by the end of next month.

He said the probe was begun after it was questioned whether the Board of Regents' policy on equal opportunity "is really being honored in one of the sororities."

The Faculty Senate's Committee on Human Rights originally made the complaint, which involves a student attending UNL in the spring of 1970.

Magrath said the allegations were similar to those made against Chi Omega Sorority at the UN-Omaha campus earlier this year.

In that incident, the Regents took no action against the sorority after it was noted the chapter had signed a statement of non-discrimination required by the board.

Man Enters Innocent Plea To Robbery, 7 Rape Counts

Hastings (AP) — Harold J. L. Irwin, 29, Hastings, pleaded innocent in district court Monday to charges containing seven counts of rape, three counts of burglary and one count of robbery and was ordered held for trial Feb. 14.

All the charges have been consolidated into a single complaint.

District Judge Fred Irons granted motions by defense attorney Gene Foote to have depositions taken Dec. 28 from Adams County Sheriff Robert Anderson, Deputy Sheriff Bobby Henry, State Patrol investigator Gary Hansel, State Patrol Lt. Lynn Parks and Adams county Atty. William Connolly.

The judge also granted Foote's motion that Irwin be given a psychiatric examination at the Hastings Regional Center in Ingleside Dec. 29.

Judge Irwin appointed John A. Wolf of Grand Island to be co-counsel with Foote. Gerald Shelan of Hastings, had been named earlier, but he pleaded a conflict of interest and was released from the assignment. Foote moved Monday that Wolf be named and Irwin assented.

City Council Discusses Restricted Club Drinking

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Disagreement among City Council members was averted Monday morning during a discussion of a proposed legislative bill which would restrict the serving of alcoholic drinks to "members only" in any private club which discriminates in its membership.

The proposed measure would prohibit the serving of liquor to non-members of a private club which "limits membership because of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin."

The council postponed a decision on whether to support the bill during this session of the Unicameral pending investigation of court cases which may decide the matter.

Councilman Harry Peterson cited the city's local Elks Lodge No. 80 which holds a Class C liquor license and limits its membership to "whites only."

He said, "I don't think we should help them discriminate by issuing them a liquor license."

Councilman Merle Hale disagreed. "If a group of Swedes want to form a club, then they have the right to limit the membership."

Peterson replied that such a liquor license is a privilege, not a right and consequently should be subject to governmental regulation.

He added, "The problem is — it's wrong to discriminate in the first place."

Hale indicated that the end result of such regulation would be to restrict membership in such a club. Councilwoman Helen Boosalis pointed out that this would not be the case.

Councilmen Dick Harstock and Bob Sikyta said they felt the bill was too restrictive and should be expanded to include members of the "immediate" family.

Harstock added, "This matter should be decided by the courts — not by the legislature.

City Atty. Dick Wood asked for the delay in order to check several court cases which may effect the proposed legislation. Wood said one case involving private clubs has been appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court under the 14th Amendment's "equal protection of the law" clause.

In other action the council was told that a three-part study is being conducted by the Housing Administration.

Housing Administrator Carl Kopines said Neighborhood Improvement projects are being conducted around the city to determine the needs of a given area. He noted that the residents have to ask for help before his office will step in.

Kopines said that his office has compiled the first total comprehensive listing of apartments which contain three or more units. He noted that there are approximately 1,700 such structures, all of which require licensing.

The third phase of the study involves research and development. He explained that a new rating system has been developed which measures compliance to the housing code. Homes are rated as standard (meeting the housing requirements), deficient (contain several violations, but none critical) and substandard (unfit for habitation).

In addition, a housing office has been set up in the Clinton area to work with area residents and increase citizen participation in neighborhood development.

Steam Heat Surcharge Approved By Council

The City Council Monday approved a 25% surcharge to the steam heat bills by the Lincoln Electric System (LES).

The rate hike, which will go into effect Jan. 1, will serve as an interim step to bring steam rates in line with service, according to LES administrator Walter Canney.

LES will be phasing out its steam heat system over the next four to five years because of its high cost and inefficiency. The increase will affect mainly downtown businesses, which are the principal users of steam heat.

In other action the council approved the transfer of $50,000 from the contingency fund to the Lincoln Transportation System. The money will help pay off the operating deficit which is expected to accumulate in the bus operation.

In further action, the council agreed to hold a second public hearing Jan. 10 to reconsider the 90-day time extension granted last Monday to the Brothers Three, Inc., which is operating the High Chaparral lounge.

City Atty. Dick Wood requested the rehearing to present additional information which his office has received to determine if the lounge's Class C liquor license should be revoked.

The council also received a request to waive the sidewalk requirements in the Chez Ami Knolls, 2nd Addition.

Attorney Norman Krivosha, representing the developers, pointed out that sidewalks in the area are not now needed. He said that the developers would put in a sidewalk network at such time the city deemed it necessary.

However, Public Works director Robert Obering said it has been city policy to construct the sidewalks as the homes are being built. He said that sidewalks will be necessary in the area since eventually a school will be built north of Old Cheney Rd. He added he saw no difference between this area and other developments, such as Wellington Greens, in which sidewalks were required. The council will vote on this matter next Monday.

In other action:

Mayor Raps Proposal By Sikyta

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf took issue Monday with Councilman Bob Sikyta's proposal to create a "service coordinator" for city hall.

Sikyta called for the middleman at last week's council session during discussion of a zoning application. Sikyta expressed displeasure at the amount of "governmental red tape" which the applicant had to cut through to have a change of zone approved.

In a news release Sikyta said, "Thousands of dollars of city employee time are being wasted now because it takes more time to perform services for citizens with the current city hall attitude."

He added that his proposal was as much "an appeal for economy and efficiency of time" as it was an appeal to serve the people.

Mayor Schwartzkopf stated, "I will strongly oppose such a position because it is not needed and would provide no additional service for the citizens of Lincoln."

Sikyta, who was elected to the council last May, said there is too much unnecessary delay in performance now by some city officials.

Reappointment Of Novak Told

Gov. J. James Exon announced Monday the reappointment of Julius Novak of Omaha to the State Motor Vehicle Dealers License Board.

Exon said Novak's past experience on the board would be of service to the state. The term was extended to Oct. 19, 1974.

Traffic To Be Banned

Pretoria, South Africa (AP) — The city announced plans to close historic Church Square to traffic beginning in February 1972.

"There is the prevailing attitude in city hall that citizens have to batter down doors to get service," he said.

He continued, "This is true whether a citizen is talking about getting a red-tagged house removed, a building permit, an industrial site development plan adopted or getting answers to other large or small questions."

Sikyta added that there are "unnecessary delays" and "unnecessary time taken in front of the council which sits 'as judge and jury on issues.'"

Mayor Schwartzkopf replied, "It just is not true that citizens have to batter down doors at city hall to get their service—as he newly elected, inexperienced councilman contends."

He added that there are delays "when special interest groups or individuals want to change established policies, codes or regulations for personal expediency."

Ex-Chairman Of Biochemistry At NU Succumbs

Omaha (AP) — The chairman of the N. U. biochemistry department from 1925 to 1950, Dr. Sergius Morgulis, died Monday at an Omaha nursing home.

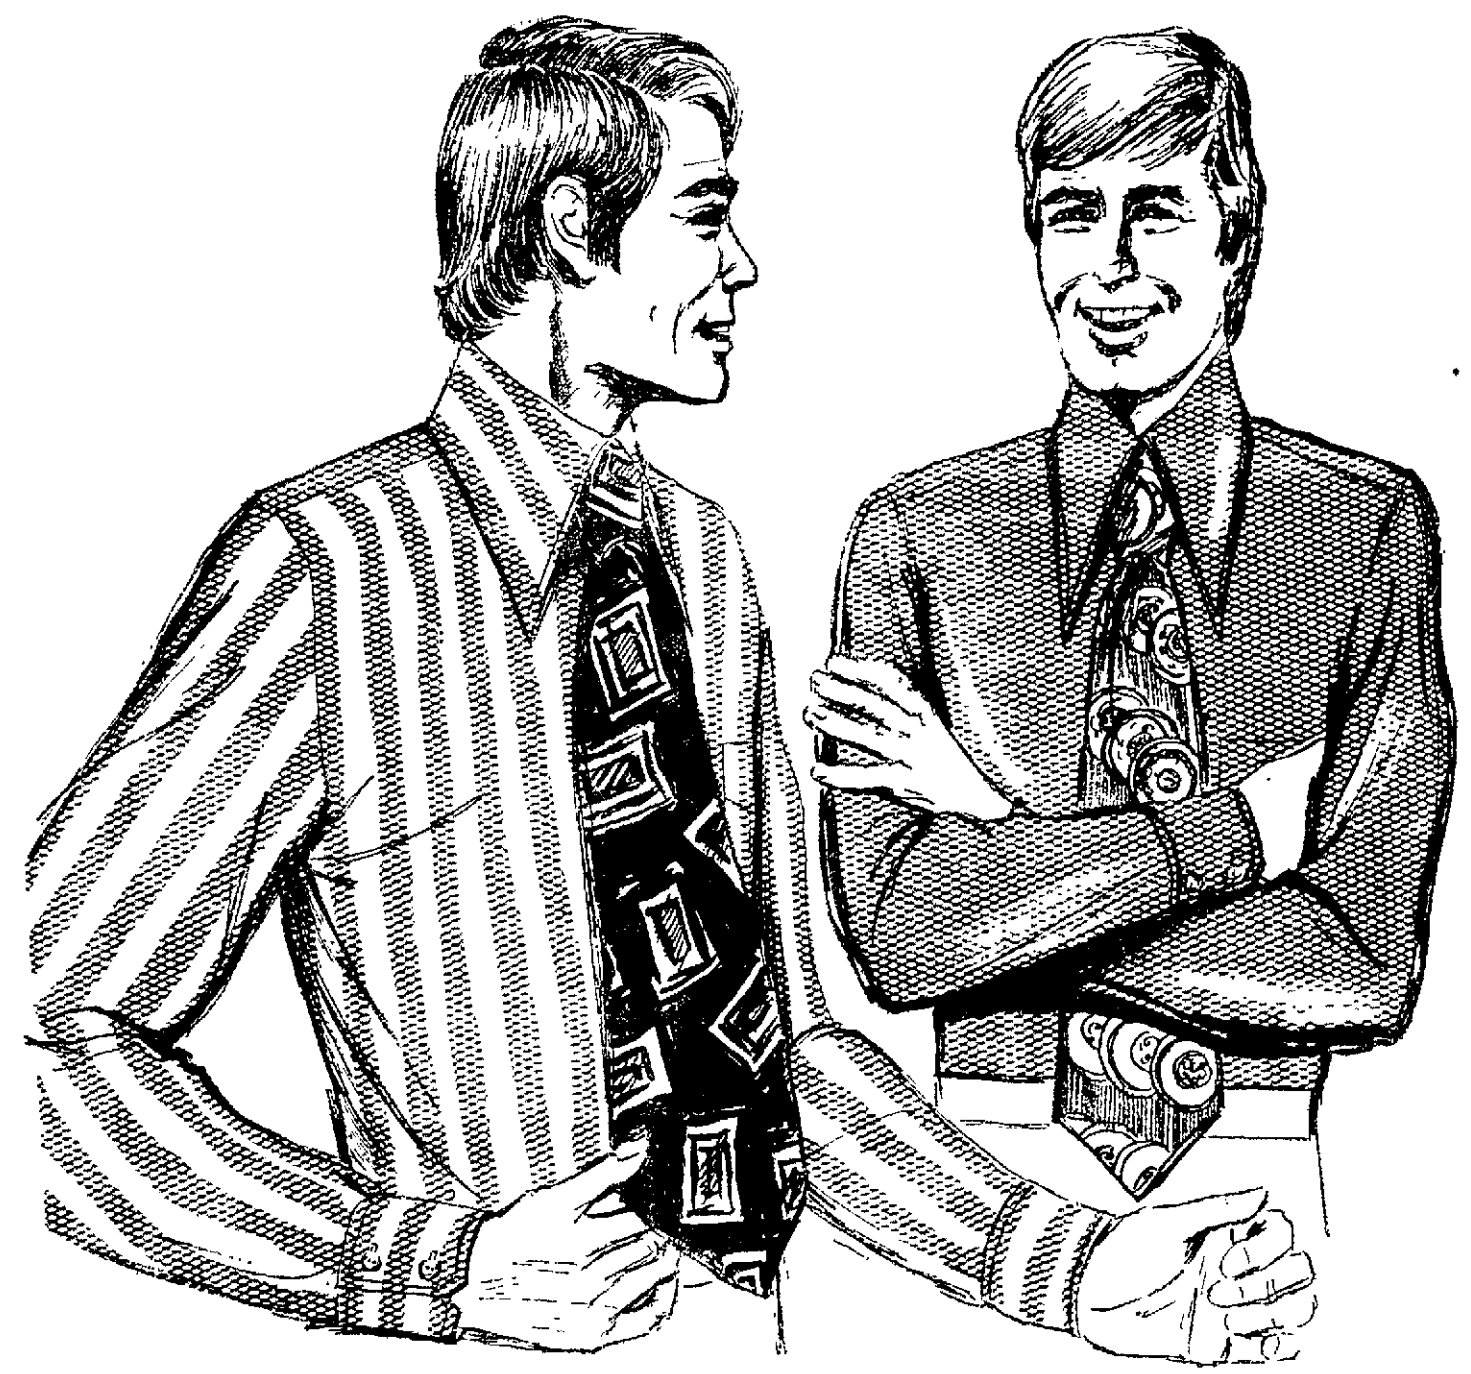

The Russian-born scientist taught at Columbia University and Carnegie Institute before coming to Creighton University to 1916.

Upon his retirement at N.U. in 1953, Dr. Morgulis was given the title of professor emeritus.

Survivors include his widow, Fannie, a daughter, Mrs. Pierre Racine of Paris, France, and six grandchildren.

Services were pending Monday.

Buy Him Putter

In these last days before Christmas, if you're wrestling with whether to get that youngster of yours a bowling ball or a putter, get the latter.

Johnny Petraglia set a record for money won on the Professional Bowlers Association tour this year with $85,065. That would barely get him in the top 20 in the final money standing of the Professional Golfers Association tour.

Nineteen golfers earned more money on the PGA Tour than did Petraglia for rolling a ball down those alleys. Golf's leading money winner, Jack Nicklaus, earned nearly three times as much as did the leading bowler. Nicklaus' official earnings were $244,490.50.

And Nicklaus made many times more for selling sweaters and slacks than did Petraglia for selling bowling shirts.

The farther down the two money-winning lists, the more widespread the figures become. Bowling's tenth leading money winner was Dick Weber with $31,730. That income tax return wouldn't even place you in the top 70 among the nations touring golfers.

Speaking of golf earnings, how about these figures for ex-Big Eighters — Dave Eichelberger (Oklahoma State) $108,312.36; Hale Irwin (Colorado) $99,473.46; Labron Harris Jr. (Oklahoma State) $46,922.51; Jim Colbert (Kansas State) $42,743.16; Grier Jones (Oklahoma State) $30,929.83; Bob Dickson (Oklahoma State) $28,122.05.

Tagge Calls It "A Grudge Match"

The Miami Herald has a feature called the VIP Line. Recently, it called Alabama running back Johnny Musso and Nebraska quarterback Jerry Tagge for their views on various things. Some of the questions and answers:

Q. What do you think of Nebraska quarterback Jerry Tagge?

A. I have only seen him play on television. He seems to be the type of guy who is used to his team always winning. He doesn't seem to be flashy or eye-catching, but his team seems to win.

Q. How do you think you'll fare against the Huskers? Is there any particular area you see in the game that will be different from past games?

A. We will continue to use a basic triple option. If you line up in that "T" and can't run that triple option you are defeated already. We are going to have to run in there and do the basic stuff. In order to make the triple option work I believe we might have to pass more than in other games. They are going to force us to run inside. I'm sure of that. If we can run inside and make them stay at home, then everything will work our way. And if we make mistakes in passing, everything will fall apart.

Q. The National Football Foundation is going to award the MacArthur Bowl to the Orange Bowl winner instead of balloting on it as they have done in the past. What do you think of this?

A. I think that's a good idea. The award is deserving to the winner. If you ballot beforehand you might not pick the winner.

Q. Nebraska has been beaten by Alabama in the only two times the teams met in the past. How much is this affecting the Huskers' attitude toward this year's Orange Bowl clash?

A. This is the main thing our coach has been trying to instill into us and this is that we haven't beaten Alabama yet. We're certainly going to give it a go in the Orange Bowl. I think it's really helped the team as far as attitude goes. It's added quite a bit more incentive. It's becoming more of a grudge match. We certainly want to end a real successful year by beating Alabama.

Defense Deciding Factor

Southern Cal football coach John McKay says defense will be the deciding factor in the Nebraska-Alabama game.

"Alabama's defense was the difference in our loss to them," McKay says. "Their wishbone stuff wasn't the difference — though they ran it well, extremely well. But Alabama scored only 17 points against us this year."

"A year ago they scored 21 against us and lost. But Nebraska played defense this year. They brought it to us. Nebraska can play defense, too. It ought to be a classic game."

"Both teams are going to move the ball, that's to be expected. But the team which plays the best defense is going to win it."

Ralphie, the Colorado buffalo mascot, who is barred from Nebraska's Memorial Stadium, will be in Houston's Astrodome when the Buffs meet Houston on New Year's Eve.

While the two were attending the National Football Foundation's awards dinner, Alabama's Johnny Musso asked Oklahoma quarterback Jack Milder for some advice on Nebraska.

"Get hurt before the game," Mildren advised.

A visitor being escorted through West Point wondered why all the names inscribed on the famous battle monument were Union army men. Escorting cadet replied, in rich Southern drawl, "Just a tribute to the marksmanship of the confederacy, sir."

Southern Cal Rallies To Tip Cyclones, 89-86

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Slick Paul Westphal rallied 10th ranked southern California in the final three minutes Monday night to give the Trojans an 89-86 victory over game Iowa State.

USC, 6-1, raced to a 49-36 halftime lead as Westphal scored 20 points and opened a 17-point margin in the first two minutes of the second half. Iowa State, however, battled back and finally took the lead at 83-82 with 5:08 to play on Jim Heck's basket.

Westphal's free throw with 2:28 remaining lifted USC back into the lead at 85-84 and 43 seconds later he hit a jump shot to extend the margin to three. Ron Riley's two free throws with 13 seconds left pushed the lead to a safe five.

Westphal finished with 30 points, Joe Mackey added 26 and Riley finished with 19 as the Trojans won their sixth straight.

Iowa State, 4-4, lost four starters by fouls. Martinez Demmon had 24 points to lead the Cyclones, reserve center Tom O'Connor had 18, Gene Mack 13 and Clint Harris 12, but all fouled out in the final 11 minutes.

Southern Cal outshot Iowa State from the field 58 to 47 per cent and also held a 37-35 rebound edge.

Huskers Face Taller Hawkeye Team Tuesday

... KUNNERT, COLLINS, SULLINGER MAINSTAYS OF IOWA TEAM

Iowa City, Iowa — In its only jaunt into Big Ten territory this season, Nebraska's basketballers face the Iowa Hawkeyes in a test beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Iowa Fieldhouse.

Coach Joe Cipriano's Huskers, impressive in capturing their Husker Classic meet over the weekend at the Coliseum, face coach Dick Schultz' Hawkeyes, now 2-4.

"This probably will be the tallest team we'll face all year," says Cipriano, "Not many teams average 6-9 in the frontline."

Junior 7-0 Kevin Kunnert, 6-9 sophomore

Jim Collins and 6-8 sophomore Harold Sullinger have been the mainstays in the towering group. Kunnert, finished as Iowa's top rebounder (9.5) and second-leading scorer (10.4) on last season's 9-15 squad.

Although Schultz has been faced with a major rebuilding chore this season, the Hawkeyes have still shown considerable strength.

The four losses were at UCLA (the nation's top-ranked club), Texas-El Paso, Duquesne and Iowa State.

In the Iowa State contest, a 97-94 loss Saturday, the Hawkeyes fired a phenomenal 73 per cent from the floor during the first half.

Against Duquesne, the Iowans fell by just 80-75 while Nebraska dropped a 75-53 decision to the Dukes earlier this month at Pittsburgh.

Iowa victories have been over Hardin Simmons (80-58) and Nevada-Reno (87-85). Both were at the Iowa Fieldhouse.

NU freshman coach Moe Iba, who scouted the Hawkeyes in the Iowa State contest, termed Iowa possibly the best team NU will face this season.

"Coach Iba was really impressed when he saw them," Cipriano said. "They can shoot, they have the height and can run."

Junior college transfer Rick Williams, who scored 24 points against Iowa State, teams with 5-10 senior Gary Luck, in the Hawkeye backcourt.

While losing all-American guard Fred Brown, Schultz also lost seven of his top nine performers from last season's seventh place Big Ten crew.

Cipriano's Huskers won last year's tilt, 73-71, in the Coliseum and leads the series, 8-6. Against Big Ten clubs, Cipriano has won six of nine tests in his eight years at the Lincoln school.

VOLS WIN LIBERTY BOWL

Razorbacks Fall To 14-13 Verdict

... FUMBLE COSTLY

Memphis, Tenn. (AP) — Curt Watson, Tennessee's ailing full-back, raced 17 yards for the deciding touchdown following a controversial fumble recovery Monday night and lifted the 9th-ranked Vols to a 14-13 victory over Arkansas in the Liberty Bowl football game.

The Vols, trailing 13-7 with less than three minutes remaining, gained possession on Carl Witherspoon's fumble recovery at the Arkansas 37 three plays before Watson scored and George Hunt kicked his 62nd straight extra point with only 1:56 left in the game.

Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said after the game that his offensive guard, Tom Reed, had the ball on the fumble play and "handed it to the official. We played well enough to win that's all I want to say about it."

Reed said, "I couldn't have had it any tighter. I handed the ball to the official and he called orange. I said 'You've got to be kidding.'"

The officials waited several seconds before signaling that Tennessee had the ball.

The fumble came after John Richardson took a screen pass from Joe Ferguson for short yardage.

"I know that Reed had the ball," Richardson said. "I'd stake my mother's life on it."

The Vols netted one yard on a running play, then got 19 on a pass from Jim Maxwell to Gary Theiler at the 17, setting up Watson's score.

"I was determined to get that ball in the end zone," said Watson, who has been recovering from fractured ribs. "I knew I had it made when old Bill Emendorfer Vol guard tackled me in the end zone."

The comeback prevented the NCAA kick scoring record-holder, Bill McClard of Arkansas, from being the hero. McClard booted field goals of 19 and 30 yards in the fourth period to give the Razorbacks a 13-7 lead and had a 48-yarder later in the period nullified when the Porkers were penalized for holding.

Tennessee had opened the game's scoring in the first period on a two-yard plunge by Bill Rudder, on play after he hurled a 22-yard halfback option pass to Emmon Love.

Arkansas' vaunted offense finally got untracked late in the second period when the Razorbacks drove 66 yards in eight plays with the touchdown coming on Joe Ferguson's 36-yard pass to Jim Hodge, who broke clear behind All-American defensive back Bobby Majors.

The victory extended Tennessee's winning streak to seven games as the Vols finished with a 10-2 record. Arkansas, ranked 18th and the Southwest Conference runner-up, closed at 8-3-1.

Mistakes frustrated both teams throughout the game, Tennessee mostly on penalties and Arkansas on interceptions or fumbles at crucial times.

The Razorbacks drove to the Tennessee 34 early in the third period but lost an eight-yard gain when an ineligible receiver was sighted downfield. On the next play Majors intercepted Ferguson's long pass and returned it 27 yards.

Drawing Set Tuesday

Leopardstown, Ireland (AP) — The Irish Sweepstakes draw will be conducted Tuesday, one week before the race that means more to ticket holders than to horse owners.

Any ticket holder drawing the name of one of the 63 horses originally entered for the race will receive a prize to be determined when total receipts are tallied.

Bowa Tops Phillies

Larry Bowa's 24 steals last season were the most by a Phillies player since Tony Taylor's 26 in 1960.

Razorbacks began another drive when fleet Dicky Morton streaked 29 yards to the Vols' 36, but that drive ended when Morton fumbled a pitchout at the 11.

Arkansas had five turnovers in the game and Tennessee four.

Tennessee's first touchdown came midway through the opening period on a 55-yard drive that included a 19-yard interference penalty against Arkansas and Rudder's 22-yard option pass that caught the Porkers by surprise.

Rudder plunged the final two yards with 6:39 left and Hunt made it 7-0.

McClard was short on a 40-yard field goal attempt early in the second period before Ferguson moved his club to the tying touchdown with 4:11 remaining in the half.

Ferguson completed four passes covering 41 yards in that drive before rifling his 36-yard scoring strike to Hodge.

Ferguson completed 18 of 23 passes for 200 yards but had three intercepted.

The Razorbacks also intercepted three of Maxwell's passes, all by Louis Campbell, who led the Southwest Conference in interceptions.

The nationally-televised, 13th annual Liberty Bowl drew a record crowd of 51,410 in the first night game for the event.

—JAYS BURST BY TIRING SPARTANS AT END OF GAME—

Creighton Bests San Jose State, 70-59

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Creighton proved to be in better shape than San Jose State and that was the difference in the game.

The Bluejays bested the California team, 70-59, here Monday night at Civic Auditorium in a defensive battle. Both teams used a pressing defense during the game but Creighton players seemed to be better conditioned.

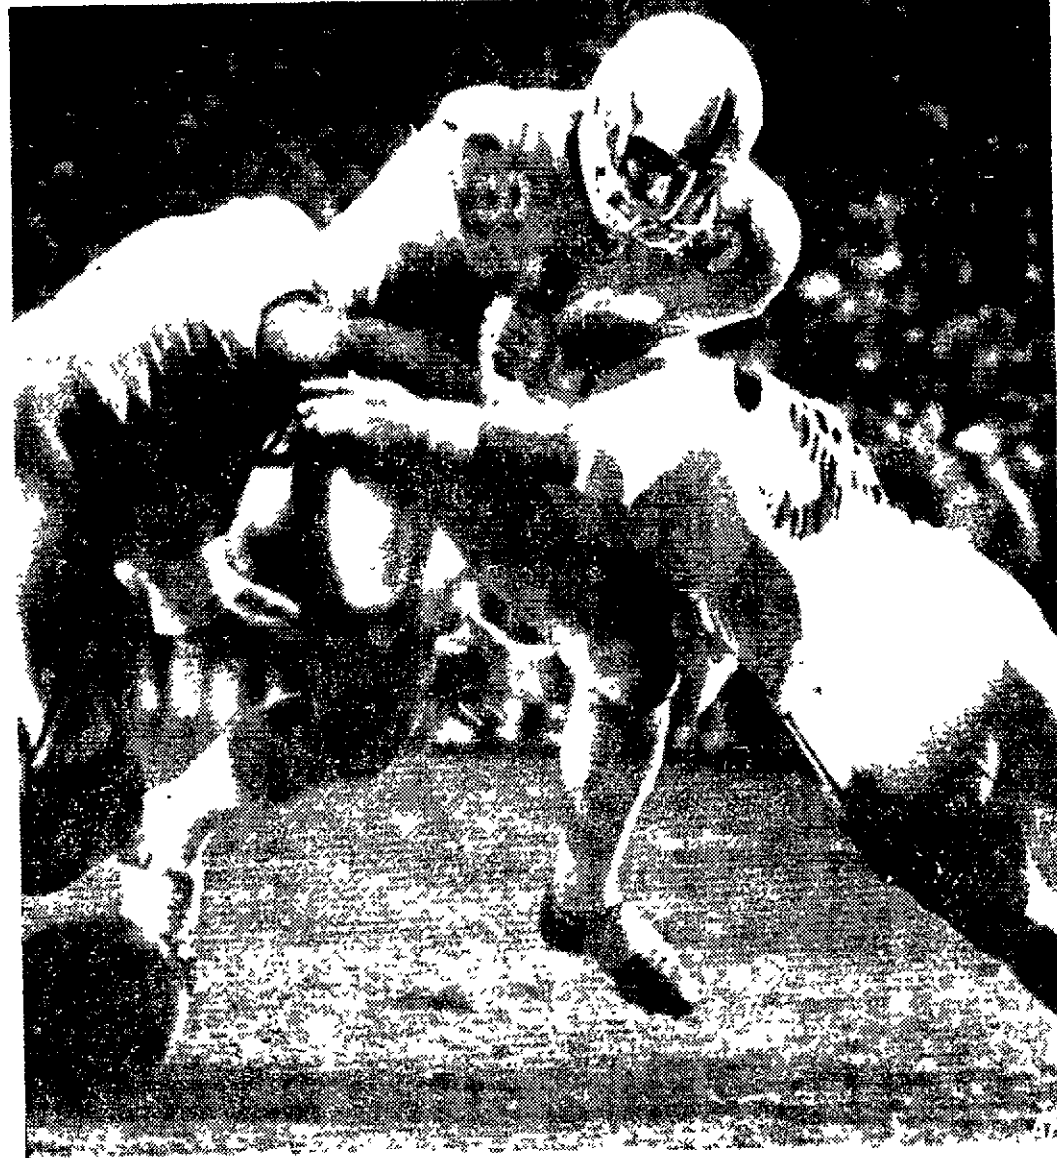

San Jose State was in command until midway in the last half.

Behind by 42-41, the 'Jays utilized their quickness and stamina to score seven straight points. The Spartans couldn't keep up during that break and were trailing on most plays.

San Jose State then battled back to within two, 48-46, but Creighton spurred ahead as the tiring Spartans dropped back for good.

The 'Jays started out in good fashion by running up a 19-12 advantage in the first half. But San Jose went into a 3-2 zone and it seemed to stifle Creighton.

The 'Jays went over six minutes without scoring as the Spartans went in front, 30-25, at halftime.

Exams Delay Practices; But Progress Normal

... BREAK IN WEATHER HELPS

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska headed into its final days of at-home preparations Monday for the New Year's Night game with Alabama in the Orange Bowl and head coach Bob Devaney said practices were progressing normally.

"I think the break in the weather helped a little today (Monday)," he added as his Huskers worked until nearly dark, having started one-half hour later than normal to avoid semester exams.

Devaney said Tuesday's session would also be delayed until 3:30, thus allowing most of the Huskers to report for most of the practice session even if they have an afternoon test.

After Monday's drill the Huskers met at the NU Coliseum to go over rules and regulations for their stay in Miami.

"We'll go over details with them," Devaney explained. "And tell them what they can and can not do. If there are any strenuous objections or suggestions, we might listen to them."

Devaney said, however, there would be little change from the format of a year ago when the Huskers climbed to the No. 1 national ranking with a 17-12 win over LSU in the Orange Bowl.

Some of Wednesday's drill, the final one in Lincoln before the 78-man squad flies to Miami on Friday, will be filmed.

"We're going to take films of our defense so we can check to make sure we're doing things right," the Husker head coach explained. "But aside from the defense, one thing we've got to do is try to move the ball against a good defensive team."

"Alabama is one of the best defensive teams in the country."

The Huskers have avoided injuries in their Lincoln workouts, but quarterback Van Brownson, who suffered a pulled hamstring in the Hawaii game, continues to be bothered some by the injury.

In the waning minutes of the game the Spartans lost their movement on offense and defense and the 'Jays were able to take advantage to win.

The victory pushes coach Eddie Eiteljort's Omaha team to a 4-2 record. Creighton will now play in the University of New Mexico holiday tournament Wednesday night.

Gene Ellefson and Richie

Smith, who didn't play against San Jose, were out with minor injuries and may be back for the tourney.

The Spartans now will travel to Purdue Tuesday night before returning to play Nebraska in Lincoln Thursday night.

UCLA Still Leads Poll

New York (UPI) — UCLA is the unanimous choice as the nation's No. 1 college basketball team by the United Press International board of coaches.

The Bruins, 4-0 but idle last week, were named first on all ballots of the 34 coaches participating in the third week of balloting. Marquette, which defeated Fordham in its only game, was second. UCLA's point margin was 340-299.

South Carolina, which barely escaped defeat vs. Virginia Tech in its only encounter retained the No. 3 spot with 233 points. The Gamecocks, 77-76 winners over the Gobblers, go after the Quaker City crown this week in Philadelphia.

North Carolina, winner of the Big Four classic in Charlotte with victories over arch rivals N.C. State and Wake Forest, moved up a notch to fourth place and Southern Cal improved three places after capturing the Jayhawk Classic over Cincinnati and Kansas.

Ohio State, which gets ace guard Alan Hornsby back this week, moved up a place to sixth. Long Beach State improved from 16th to seventh and Indiana jumped from 10th to eighth. St. John's and Southwestern Louisiana completed the top 10.

Brigham Young, which lost its first game last week (83-87 to Kansas), dropped from fourth to No. 11 and was followed by Florida State. The Seminoles also tasted defeat for the first time when head Coach Hugh Durham was ejected from a game in Hawaii Saturday night and protested so vehemently that the officials declared a forfeit.

Maryland, Kentucky, Ohio U. and Louisville followed in 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th, there was a tie between Arizona State and Penn for 18th. Minnesota and Jacksonville completed the top 20.

Ohio U. cracked the ratings for the first time after stunning wins over highly regarded Big Ten powers Ohio State and Indiana.

Top-ranked UCLA has given the coaches good reason for its unanimous vote of confidence. The Bruins lead the nation in scoring, averaging 109.5 points per game with a sophomore-oriented unit.

The nation's top individual scorer is Dwight Lamar, the key behind Southwestern Louisiana's success. A small college All-America last year, Lamar boasts a 34.8 average this year.

Maynard To Return

To Jet Lineup Again

New York (UPI) — Don Maynard will return next season to continue his pursuit of pro football's pass receiving record.

Maynard, now 34, already holds the National Football League record for most yards gained by pass receptions and is only 28 receptions short of Raymond Berry's Pro record of 631.

Fight Announcer Dies

New York (UP)—Johnny Addie, 69, who announced championship fights at Madison Square Garden for 25 years, died Monday after a five-week illness.

Addie started his Garden career with Joe Louis' comeback after the war and announced every major title fight thereafter, including the Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier classic last March.

POSTCARD by Stan Klapal

My scatter-by-the-bay is filled with warm Christmas music these chill nights. The windows across the water frame lighted Christmas trees.

Having been very good lately, I rewarded myself with some magnificent hi-fi. Before Christmas.

"It is more blessed to give than to receive," grandma said.

In this case I did both. Twice blessed, bless your heart. I switched on the glowing dials. The music poured out:

"Silent night, holy night..."

The TV gives off a flavor of Christmas. But a pretty gory Christmas. TV stories are about people in plenty of trouble.

Who gets them out of trouble? The Lawman. Sarge. Ironsides. Erskine of the FBI.

In the course of this, a lot of people get clobbered. Shot and shivs stuck in them. Gone to jail.

What is Merry Christmas to some is stony-lonesome to others.

In days of radio, happiness gleamed more brightly on the whirling dial.

It was a shining world of soap — a world that smelled of Duz.

"The Right To Happiness!" "The Second Mrs. Burton!" "Our Gal Sunday!"

These chicks were always in trouble. But it was not like TV trouble. It was inside trouble. No cop could solve it. (And no cop would want to. Nothing a policeman hates worse than sitting in the middle of family beefs.)

The radio girls were slandered by their neighbors. Their families were having operations. Their husbands were wildly suspicious — without reason, but you know how it is.

"How come my fishing hat is in the bathroom?"

"Well dear, I had to call the plumber today. He wore it while he looked for the leak. Don't be wildly suspicious."

"Did he have to wear my waders, too?"

Soon the neighbors are knifing her on the blower: "I don't want to say anything but..."

The radio writers cleared the air by giving them a good Christmas. Just as all hell was breaking loose.

The plumber drops by: "I was just trying on the waders to see how they fit, old boy. Did I leave a pipe wrench under the bed? Can't seem to find it."

The wildly suspicious husband realizes he has been a dope.

Merry Christmas! You could hear signs of relief all over the nation.

This was followed by a refreshing commercial: "Don't call the plumber! Use Insto! The new magic power with a free set of dishes!"

Those were the happiness days!

Has Helen a right to happiness since Claude lost his memory? Claude cannot even remember where he hid his Easter eggs. A no-show on memory lane.

Can Hester, a simple, barefoot housewife find her way back to happiness with an egg farmer 20 years her junior?

Nobody is looking for happiness on TV. They are looking for the debt-ridden scientists who's selling missile formula to a foreign power.

Looking for the bloke who held up the bank. Who kidnapped the lawyer's only daughter. "Hold it right there! FBI!"

Scientific but no heart tugs.

I turned it off and tuned up the gleaming hi-fi. "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." Happiness is warm music and hot buttered rum.

Doane Experiments May Finally Be Over

... STARTING LINEUP FOUND?

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Doane basketball coach Bob Erickson figures he's through experimenting with a starting lineup.

Only seven Tigers from the Crete school saw action in the 78-73 win over Wayne State Saturday night. In previous games Erickson was using many players.

He points out the Concordia game where 11 players saw action in just the first half.

"We only returned two starters from last year," Erickson said. "We were trying to find the right combination of players to start."

Doane got off to a good start by winning its first two games.

Then the Tigers lost three straight, one of which was a real surprise and disappointing to Erickson — Peru. "We were struggling around down at Peru and played our poorest game," Erickson said. "We just couldn't put much of anything together."

The other losses were to Hastings and Northwestern, Iowa. The Hastings game was for the title of the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference's pre-season basketball tournament.

The setback to Northwestern occurred in Orange City, Iowa and the Iowans went to the NAIA meet last year as did the Tigers.

And Hastings is being counted upon as giving Doane the most trouble in trying to repeat as NIAC champs. So Erickson figured the Wayne game was pretty important for the team.

"We played our best game of the season against Wayne," Erickson noted.

"The players have finally gotten adjusted to each other and scored well. In our past games I've been pleased with our defense but we haven't been hitting the outside shot enough," he explained.

The victory was quite meaningful for Doane because Wayne is one of the top state college teams this year. Wayne's only other loss was administered by Northwestern in an overtime.

Although the Tigers are 3-3, Erickson points out the team started slowly last year and came on strong after the start of the new year.

In doing that, Doane not only won the NIAC crown but bested a good Kearney State team to earn a trip to the NAIA tournament in Kansas City. And most of the Tiger backers and Erickson are hoping for a repeat performance.

Doane now will be out of action until their holiday tournament, 28-30.

Sacramento Area Said Top Hunting

Pheasant hunting at the Game and Parks Commission's Sacramento-Wilcox Game Management Area near Wilcox has been tops so far this year and should offer gunners fine upland sport through the close of the pheasant season on Jan. 16, according to the Nebraska Game Commission.

The area has hosted an estimated 900 hunters this year, and a good number of them bagged birds. Heaviest hunting pressure occurred on opening weekend of the season, so gunners now should have plenty of room on 2,900 acres at Sacramento and its satellite areas.

Ringneck sport should be especially good starting Wednesday, when an additional 750 acres of prime pheasant habitat open to hunters. That area served as a waterfowl refuge during the duck season, which closed in that portion of the state Monday. Game Commission personnel will spend Tuesday removing refuge signs and making other preparations to accommodate pheasant hunters the following day.

However, hunters will have to steer clear of two segments of the new pheasant hunting area. One of these is the captive goose pen, where a brood flock of Canada geese is kept. The other is a buffer zone around the management area headquarters and adjacent buildings.

The duck season at Sacramento was fair this year, with hunters averaging about one bird each. A dry summer and fall reduced water there, but pumping from wells by Game Commission personnel partially remedied the situation. The peak duck population was about 5,000 birds in early December.

Sacramento and its satellite areas are also a boon to visiting gunners who have no contact with private landowners before arriving in Nebraska to hunt. Nonresident hunters stopping by the area headquarters so far this year represented 23 states.

Ewbank Again Named To Coach-Manager Jets

New York (UPI) — Weeb Ewbank, the 64-year-old head coach and general manager of the New York Jets of the American Football Conference, has agreed to assume those double duties again next year, according to an announcement made Monday by club president Philip H. Iselin.

Ewbank, who completed his 10th season at the helm of the Jets and his 18th as a head coach in the professional ranks, has a 133-116-7 won-lost record and his teams have acquired three world championships.

Svare Fires Personnel

San Diego, Calif. (UPI) — San Diego Chargers head coach Harland Svare fired his assistant coaches and trainer Monday, and chief scout Tom Miner was promoted to vice president in charge of player relations, a position similar to general manager.

Svare, appointed permanent coach Sunday after four games as an interim replacement for Sid Gillman, told a news conference his move was no reflection on the assistants "but it had to be done; I had to have my own people. They accepted it most graciously."

The assistants released were Charlie Waller, Phil Bengtson, Joe Madro, Jim Phillips, Lamar Lundy, O. A. Phillips and Jackie Phillips. Jim Van Deusen was the trainer.

Miner will have authority over drafting and scouting, signing of all football players and instituting of all trades.

Svare, who was appointed general manager at the first of the year, said he had been in contact with 12 assistant coach candidates but could announce no names until the playoffs were over.

"They will know the game, be strong and experienced and not 'yes' men," he said.

"I also don't want men who will overcoach," he added.

Bobby Jones Buried Monday In Atlanta

Atlanta (AP) — Bobby Jones, who began playing golf at the age of six with a sawed off hickory-shafted club and became the game's only Grand Slam winner, was buried Monday.

Private graveside services at Atlanta's tree-shaded Oakland Cemetery on the edge of the business district took less than ten minutes.

Only members of Jones' immediate family were at graveside, but a handful of the golfers' old friends stood a few yards away, talking among themselves.

"That's the way Dad wanted it," said Robert T. Jones III. "He just didn't want any great fuss."

The day was warm, but grey and drizzly.

Services consisted of several short prayers read from a Catholic prayer book by the Rev. Msgr. John D. Stapleton. Jones was baptized a Catholic three days before his death.

No eulogies were read at graveside, but the family has been deluged with tributes to the golf great since his death Saturday, at the age of 69.

Jones, who personified the Golden Era of sports when he achieved golf's only Grand Slam in 1930, died at this home.

His doctor said he died as the result of an aneurism he suffered last week, but Jones had been suffering for years from a painful and crippling back disease called syringomyelia.

The disease ended his golfing career in 1948—18 years after he won the Grand Slam by taking the U.S. Open, the U.S. Amateur, the British Open and British Amateur championships.

Jones was buried in a grey metal casket beside members of his wife's family. The grave is against a mossy brick wall on the edge of the old cemetery.

Jones, who as a teen-aged golfer was the game's enfant terrible, was a man of steely determination and drive. "The man was sick so long and he fought it so successfully that I think we have finally discovered the secret to Jones' success — it was the strength of his mind," reflected Ben Hogan upon learning of his friend's death.

Jones cut a glamorous figure as he moved through the decade of the '20s, making headlines with the likes of boxer Jack Dempsey.

Jail Escapee Recaptured At Cozad

Cozad (AP) — A 21-year-old Elwood man who broke jail at Curtis, was recaptured several hours later in a Cozad sporting goods store, when a police officer noticed a door broken in and investigated.

The man was identified as Douglas Schweitzer, who had been arraigned on a burglary charge for a break in at Curtis and was awaiting preliminary hearing, Dawson County Atty.

Willard Weinhold reported.

Frontier County Sheriff Lannie Roblee said Schweitzer escaped through a hole in the ceiling of his jail cell. Authorities said a car was stolen from a sales agency that same night.

Cozad Police Officer Vance Frazier said about 2:30 a.m. he noticed the door of Arnold's Sporting Goods store broken in and when he investigated he found Schweitzer inside armed with a .38 caliber handgun which he had inadvertently loaded with .32 caliber ammunition and a knife.

He fired a warning shot and Schweitzer surrendered.

He said Schweitzer made an unsuccessful attempt to flee while being taken to the police station.

Omaha Police Investigating Two Robberies

Omaha (UPI) — Two robberies by masked and armed bandits Sunday and early Monday were under investigation by police.

Two black men wearing ski masks Monday morning accosted the manager of a Hinky-Dinky store as he left his house and forced him to open the supermarket. They escaped with an undetermined amount of cash. Police were still investigating and no other details were available.

Two men disguised in false beards and mustaches Sunday took an undetermined amount of cash and checks from the Richman Gorman store at the Bel-Air Shopping Center in West Omaha.

The two herded four employees into a downstairs rest room, barricaded the outside of the door and then broke into a nearby residence and stole a car.

Manager Dennis W. Reising, 26, said he could not estimate the amount taken but the store did "heavy Christmas business" Saturday.

Executive Club Elects Pauley New President

Gordon Pauley, president of Pauley Lumber Co., stepped up from the vice presidency to the presidency of the Executive Club of Lincoln Monday.

Gordon Pauley

Pauley succeeds Gary L. Aksamit in the post.

Also elected at the organization's semiannual business meeting at the Radisson Cornhusker were Dr. Greg Kallos, vice president; Bill Swanson, secretary-treasurer (reelected), and Don Mathes, W. W. Sweptson and Palmer Meyer, new board members.

Hanrahan Axed By Daley

Chicago (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley, his Illinois Democrats shaken by two indictments and apparently growing black resistance to organizational politics, reversed himself Monday and dropped controversial Edward V. Hanrahan from the party's 1972 slate.

Daley has been under growing criticism since Dec. 7 when he chose Hanrahan to run for re-election as state's attorney for Cook County which includes Chicago.

Hanrahan lost a vital round last week in an attempt to quash charges that he obstructed justice in connection with a 1969 raid by his office on a Black Panther apartment, in which two Panther Party leaders were killed.

Coupled with a federal indictment of Otto Kerner, also a Daley-backed Democrat charged with shady racetrack stock dealings when he was governor, and angry murmurings from liberals and blacks, Daley was under increasing pressure from party candidates to strengthen the election slate.

The slate consists of candidates whom the party organization supports for nomination by Democratic voters in the March 21 primary.

Replaced By Berg

Daley met in an all-day emergency session Sunday with top Democrats and after a brief session Monday announced that Hanrahan would be replaced by Raymond Berg, 40, who has a reputation for cleaning up the scandal-ridden traffic division of Circuit Court.

Hanrahan, once thought to be a possible successor to Daley, was not immediately available for comment.

Shortly after Daley's announcement, Judge Philip Romiti said at a scheduled Circuit Court hearing that he would rule Jan. 7 on motions submitted by Hanrahan to drop charges against him.

Hanrahan lost a key round Friday when the Illinois

Supreme Court voted 4-3 to bar a hearing ordered by Judge Romiti to determine the validity of the indictment in which Hanrahan and 13 others are charged with obstructing justice in the aftermath of the 1969 raid.

The defendants contended the grand jury was improperly influenced by the special prosecutor, Barnabas F. Sears. They based this on affidavits obtained from three grand jurors.

LBJ Papers On Education Will Be Seen

Austin, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson said Monday that the education papers of the LBJ administration to be released Jan. 28 would throw new light on the 60 education bills passed while he was president.

"Through these papers you will be able to explore all the reasoning and explanations that came to the president on education matters," Johnson said at a brief news conference on the first release of material by the LBJ Library.

The first release of presidential papers will be preceded by a symposium of prominent education leaders
Jan. 24-25, sponsored by the library and the University of Texas.

"I take great pride that I was referred to... as the education president," Johnson said. "I have reviewed these papers and they will include about 250,000 documents out of the 31 million in the library... these papers are among the most far-reaching and significant."

Fatigue-caused losses of only 3 minutes an hour per employee, based on the minimum wage scale, can cost $182 a year.

Only 30 minutes lost a week from rejects, costs $45.40 per employee, not taking into account wasted materials.
If you employ only 10 people, the loss can be considerable; if you have 1000, it can be staggering. Large or small, few businesses can afford profit erosion like this.
More and more now subscribe to the MUZAK® service. Independent studies show that MUZAK® increases employee alertness and vigilance.

The MUZAK service is different from mere background music. For different. For years, scientists studied the ebb and flow of employee efficiency.

They found it flows in a cycle curve. By studying this curve and the employee moods underlying it, MUZAK specialists were able to discover, through exacting tests, just which kind of music would best stimulate the employee at the times of day when efficiency is lowest.

Thus, music by MUZAK is psychologically selected, recorded and programmed to vary throughout the day and fit the employee efficiency curve.
